Roberts Beats Ailing Baldwin; 'Kid Rink' Wins

(See Sports Page for Thursday's Results)

By ERNIE FEDORUK

An ailing Matt Baldwin, defending Brier champion, suffered his second defeat this morning in Canadian curling championships at Memorial Arena, slipping into a three-way tie for first place with only one round left in the Tankard competition.

Murray Roberts of Ontario, building up an early lead and then giving the Alberta representatives nothing to shoot at, defeated Baldwin 10-6.

At the same time, 18-year-old Terry Braunestein of Winnipeg, sparked his foursome to a 10-7 triumph over Nova Scotia to give the Manitoba rink a share of the lead.

After 10 rounds, Ontario, Alberta and Manitoba each have won seven games and lost two.

SLIM CHANCE

Results of this morning's draw even gave British Columbia, skipped by Victoria's Tony Gutoski, a slim hope of getting into a playoff for the coveted trophy.

B.C.'s representatives, who improved their record to six wins and three losses with today's 10-7 win over Quebec, could also squeeze into the playoff picture only if Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario lost their afternoon games.

It's almost a dead certainty that a playoff will be held in Memorial Arena tonight. The playoff pattern will not be known until this afternoon's five games are complete.

Baldwin, 31-year-old petroleum engineer, suffered from a touch of the flu this morning and it seemed to affect his play.

The brilliant shotmaker with the picture delivery had to leave the ice on two occasions because of his illness.

Throughout the game against the surprising Ontario quartet, he sat down at the end of

CURLING PLAYOFF DETAILS

Trustees of the Brier Tankard, emblematic of Canadian curling supremacy, today announced playoff arrangements should a tie for first place occur at the end of the regulation 11 rounds.

In case of a two-way tie, a sudden-death playoff will be held at 8 p.m. If there is a three-way tie, one team will receive a bye and the two other rinks will play off at 7 p.m. The deciding game would follow the first game at approximately 2½ hours later.

the rink while waiting for his opponents to shoot.

Roberts was never behind after opening with a two-ender. It was 4-1 for Ontario after four ends and 6-2 after six.

Ontario sewed up victory by scoring successive two-enders on the ninth and tenth frames.

BOOMING GAME

The Ontario rink, with few exceptions, curled magnificently. They boomed out everything in sight and never gave Alberta, hoping to win the national crown for a second successive year, a chance to build up a big end.

Baldwin was unable to capitalize on the errors.

Other members of the Ontario rink are third Andy Grant, a Brier veteran, second Ray Grant and skip Murray Roberts. Ontario pulled through with a 10-6 victory.

Manitoba, the youngest entry in the Brier, had a tight squeeze to get by Nova Scotia's Don Bauld, whose rink has an average age of 47.5, the oldest in the curling classic.

Manitoba, like Ontario, got away to a fast start and two-enders on the ninth and 10th ends gave Braunestein's rink excellent insurance.

COME FROM BEHIND

B.C., however, had to come from behind in order to knock off Bob Lahale's lightly-regarded Quebec entry. Gutoski's rink scored on seven of the last 10 ends, including doubles on the eighth, ninth and 12th ends.

Saskatchewan wound up their schedule by defeating New Brunswick 11-6 to finish with a 6-4 record. Saskatchewan drew the bye for this afternoon's final round. In the other game this morning, Northern Ontario edged Newfoundland 9-8.

LEADERS CONFIDENT

'Sons of Freedom' Emigration Nearer

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Leaders of British Columbia's fanatic Sons of Freedom Doukhobors sect are confident that the group's plan to migrate en masse to Russia will soon materialize.

In his first statement since returning with a four-man delegation from discussions with the Soviet government, Freedomite Secretary Bill Mojelesky said Thursday he was sure "Russia will give the Doukhobors the dignity of human beings and the right to live as a family unit."

He said the Sons of Freedom have made an informal application to the Soviet government for land in the Altai region of southwestern Siberia.

There have been reports of a split in the ranks of Freedomites with some, under the leadership of John Lebedoff, opposing the move to Russia. Lebedoff first proposed the move as chairman of the sect's fraternal council in 1949.

Mojelesky did not discuss the split but said a meeting of the 52-member council will be held in secret Saturday to avoid "interference by the authorities and Lebedoff."

The council and the delegation will report Sunday to a mass meeting of Doukhobors at Krestova, an isolated town which has for years been the Freedomite capital.

Mojelesky said his delegation has received assurances that the Soviet government will grant both the military exemption and religious freedom sought by the sect.

Big Slide Traps Train, Isolates Prince Rupert

Five Crewmen Jump to Safety

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mud and rocks sweeping down a mountainside trapped a CNR work train early today 17 miles east of Prince Rupert on the shores of Skeena River Inlet.

Coming after hours of gale-driven rain and snow, the slide derailed two diesel units and five log-filled cars of the train, but four work crews escaped injury. It was not known here how many men were in the crews.

Telegraph and telephone wires were left a tangled mass, cutting all communications with Prince Rupert, 500 miles north of here, except via wireless.

The slide rumbled down the mountain at 3 a.m. with tons of rock and mud pouring over the tracks and a 35-foot high pile of rubble was reported moving slowly into the inlet.

One report received via the Point Grey wireless station here said one of the diesel units was in danger of being pushed into the water as the slide brought trees, mud and huge rocks into its path.

Heavy snow hampered the work of crews trying to get through to the slide area.

Late in November seven persons died in a slide on the outskirts of Prince Rupert when three homes at the foot of Mount Hayes were swept into a creek. There was only one survivor, an 18-months-old girl.

200 FEET WIDE

The slide today was reported 200-feet wide, but after the first onrush, the avalanche of mud and rock slowed.

"The slide hit while the train was still moving," said a CNR spokesman at Terrace, a few miles east of the scene. "There was everything in it, trees, mud, big boulders. Everything."

The report from Terrace said five men leaped from the train and made their way into town.

"We don't know how they got out of it," said the spokesman. "But they said everybody was walking around uninjured."

Two members of the work train crew were identified only as a Mr. Lauth, the engineer, and a Mr. Wozney, conductor, both of Prince Rupert.

Other coastal and inland districts reported storm conditions today.

Some were battered by wind-driven rain and snow, with occasional rain showers mixed with snow at the higher levels.

FIRE DESTROYS BRECHIN MILL AT NANAIMO

NANAIMO (CP) — The sawmill on the northern outskirts of this city burned to the ground early today with a loss of $500.

At dawn firemen were still trying to save some of the lumber stacked in the yard, using 3,000 feet of hose to bring water to the scene.

The mill, owned by Dorman Bros., employed 28 men. Fire Chief Colin McArthur said a welding job, done after the mill shut down for the day, may have been the cause of the fire.

A fire marshal investigator will investigate the blaze.

even with Matt Baldwin by handing Alberta skip 10-6 defeat. Also sharing lead is Terry Braunestein's youthful Manitoba foursome, which clipped Nova Scotia 10-7. (Times Photo by Halkett.)

Flier Lighted Match That Started Fire

CLINTON, Ont. (CP) — An 18-year-old airman, in a written statement submitted as evidence today at his court martial, told of touching a lighted match to a pile of paper and watching the beginning of a fire that gutted a Clinton RCAF barracks block Feb. 3.

AC2 George A. Morrice of Medicine Hat, Alta., said in the statement that he came across a box containing one match in a washroom while making his rounds on early-morning fire picket.

He said he stooped to light the match, and in rising hit his head against a wash basin.

"I threw the match on a pile of papers and watched them burn," he said. "Then I took a piece of burning paper into a boiler room and threw it on a wooden shelf."

The young airman said he then went back to the station's fire hall and was there when the alarm went.

Firing Postponed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. Navy postponed today's scheduled daylight firing of its launching Vanguard rocket.

FCC Probe Ordered

WASHINGTON (UP) — A U.S. Justice Department spokesman said today a federal grand jury soon will investigate "a new facet of the Federal Communications Commission situation."

The jury is now concentrating on the financial dealings between FCC commissioner Richard A. Mack and Miami attorney Thurman A. White-side.

The undefeated Canadian Whitby team had more trouble with the powerfully-built Czechs than with any team so far. The Canadians scored twice in the first period, were held scoreless in the second and finished off with four goals.

The performance of the Canadians against the Czechs was considered especially significant as a gauge of the Canucks' chances against their arch-rivals, the Russians, in the final game of the tournament Sunday.

Gosselin's hat-trick featured the Canadian scoring. Other goals were contributed by Gagnon, Broden and Sinden.

NORMAN
CRIBBENS
IN THE LEGISLATURE

After six weeks of listening to speeches, debates, quarrels and quibbles in the Legislature, you get a terrible yen to get up and go some place where nobody speaks but everybody does something.

How grand it would be to stand on a strip of new road and watch a bulldozer plowing through the mud . . . a crane lifting a ton of granite . . . a building going up or a bridge creeping out over a great waterway.

How wonderful to hear, instead of voices, the singing of the wind as it ruffles the fuzzy tops of giant cedars, the thunder of a mighty river rushing and foaming through rocky canyons.

What a magical escape from words, words, words . . . No doubt Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi, that much-travelled man, could add something to this, for he stated just recently that "the hardest part of my job is sitting in this House."

As it happened, Mr. Gagliardi was not in the House Thursday night — the ninth night sitting since the session opened — and I wondered, half enviously, if he were flying low over some new highway project or testing the curves somewhere.

We have to admit, of course, that under our democratic system, before new projects can be launched, they have to be worked out in a battle of words. And there were plenty of them all day Thursday.

Discussion of estimates for the ministry of education occupied most of the afternoon. Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo-Slocan), John Squire (CCF-Alberni) and Gordon Dowding (CCF-Burnaby) repeatedly prodded Education Minister Leslie Peterson for more detail on expenditures.

"He is like a Reluctant Dragon," smiled Mr. Dowding. "He rouses our curiosity but does not satisfy it."

Mr. Squire said Mr. Peter

ARAB 'JOAN OF ARC'

Algerian Woman, 22
Awaits Guillotine

PARIS (Reuters) — A 22-year-old woman, called the "Arab Joan of Arc" by her friends, waited in her death cell in Algeria today hoping that President Rene Coty of France will grant her clemency.

Jamila Bouhired, pretty, dark-eyed and with fierce political convictions, was sentenced nine months ago to die under the guillotine. She was convicted by a French military tribunal in Algiers of being involved in a bomb-throwing mission carried out by Algerian rebels in an Algiers cafe.

Jamila denied taking part in the bombing raid, but reaffirmed her faith in the rebel cause during her trial.

No woman has been executed by France for rebel activities, but four women besides Jamila are under a death sentence. No dates have been set for these executions. The French have executed 127 rebel men and another 201 are under sentence to die.

Appeals for clemency for Jamila have come from many parts of the world and from many French citizens. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations and Soviet Premier Bulganin are among those who have asked that her life be spared.

Realtors' Parley
To Hear Williston

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston will be among the featured speakers at the B.C. Association of Real Estate Boards convention in Victoria, March 17 and 18.

Mr. Williston will address Tuesday's luncheon meeting in the Empress dining room on "The Wenner-Gren Project." He plans to illustrate his talk with colored slides.

More 200 real estate agents and salesmen from all over B.C. are expected to attend the conference.

It's Getting Monotonous

IN APPARENT CONTRADICTION, prices and unemployment continue to rise simultaneously in Canada. We have an economic deflation and price inflation.

The cost of living index reached its all-time peak at the beginning of February, according to latest figures. It had risen to an index mark of 123.7, or three-tenths of a point in the previous month. The consumer's price level is now almost a quarter above that of 1949 when it was already far above the pre-war level.

The continual rise in prices, month by month, has become so monotonous and commonplace that the news editors now put the figures on the back pages of the press. The nation almost begins to take continual inflation for granted, or even as normal. At all events it is inevitable, given a continual increase in production costs.

We are now feeling, at the retail level, the increased costs built into the economy last year by various wage increases. The increases granted now will touch the housewife's purse some months hence. All this is inevitable so long as wages increase faster than productivity. And while wages have risen generally in the last year the nation's productivity has actually declined.

But the spiral now under way cannot continue forever. There is a breaking point somewhere along the line and it has been reached already in some industries that find their prices restraining the sale of their products and causing unemployment.

Since the election campaign began we have been waiting to see whether any national statesman had

Encouraging Signs

PERIODIC UPSETS IN SOUTH

American politics have long been a familiar part of life in the western hemisphere. Now the recent democratic elections in Argentina and the ousting of dictators in other countries of the southern continent give hope that a more liberal and stable era is dawning for these peoples.

The overthrow of Juan Peron in Argentina was, of course, a major step in the democratic clean-up. His subsequent travels through South America may perhaps be indicative of a new political maturity in that area, for the former dictator has met with no long-standing welcomes anywhere.

First stop on his hoppity-hop flight was Paraguay, where the local military junta allowed him to remain for a month. Argentine pressure then forced a move to Panama, where American authorities permitted him to stay for about half a year. By then criticism of the general's undercover political manoeuvres led to another move, this time to Nicaragua.

As in Paraguay, a military dictator made Peron welcome, but only for a few weeks. The next stop was Venezuela and General Peron had not been there long before his former host, President Somoza of Nicaragua was assassinated.

In Venezuela, under dictator General Jiminez, Peron's prospects were bright. But a shadow was thrown by the rebellion which ousted Peron's friend, dictator Rojas Pinilla next door in Colombia, in May, 1957. It proved to be a portent of action closer to home, as the recent uprising in Venezuela showed. Peron's host was out of office and Peron was on the move again.

This time he landed in the Dominican Republic as guest of another dictator, Generalissimo Trujillo. It lasted only a week. Charged with abusing Dominican hospitality, General Peron was again given notice to leave.

The legend was growing that bad luck pursued the ex-dictator's dictatorial hosts and it may be that South America has become too small for the one-time Argentine boss.

But if his progress from one country to another has been marred by a ferment of unrest among the people, it has demonstrated that a healthful democratic movement appears to be under way. It is a movement that should receive every encouragement from North America.

A recent White House message congratulating the people of Venezuela on their governmental house-cleaning contained the following sentence: "While we are not in a position to intervene in the internal development of the countries of Latin America, we are in a position to feel—and we do feel—satisfaction and pleasure when the people of any country determinedly choose the road to democracy and freedom."

That is a sentiment with which Canadians will readily agree. The South American countries are demonstrating a development which we might, through closer trade and social contacts, do much to assist in a concrete way.

Not Afraid to Be Canadians

STUDENTS WHO BOYCOTTED classes Thursday in five of the six universities in Quebec province sought to draw public attention to the fact that Premier Duplessis has been niggardly with provincial funds for higher education.

But the problem goes farther than that, for the Quebec Premier has also refused to permit Quebec universities to share in the millions of dollars in federal funds made available for them last year by the St. Laurent Government.

While universities in other provinces are taking advantage of this source of revenue, Quebec institutions are not allowed to use it. The annual grants, however, are being put aside in a special fund for them by the Federal Government. It is this "frozen" wealth that the students wish to have put into use.

Saving the Plank

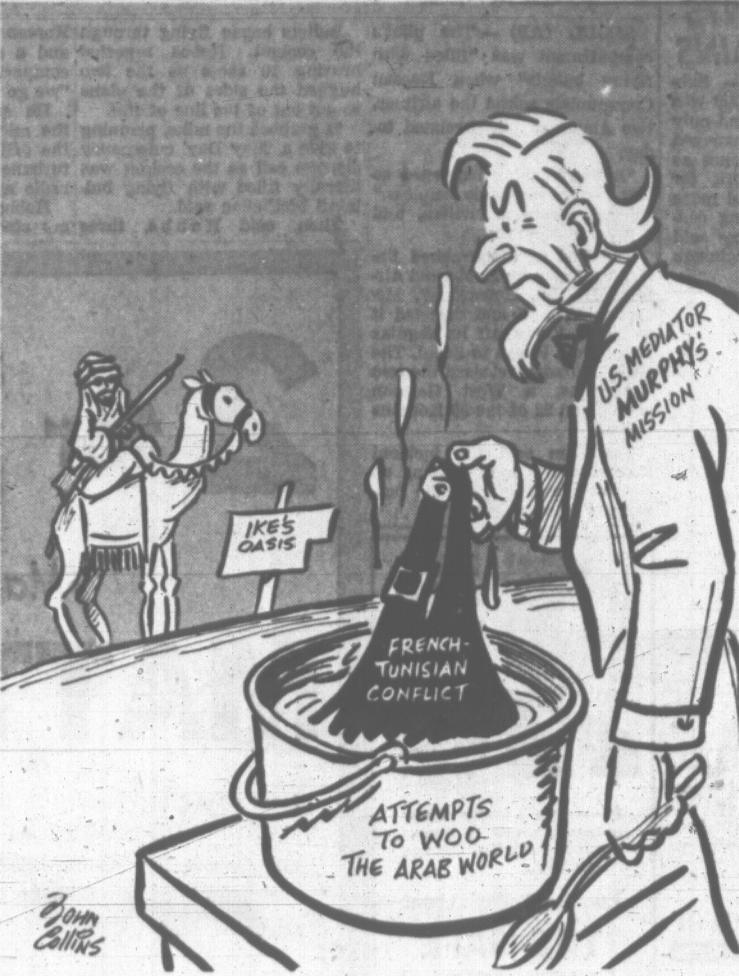

MR. CHANT HAS MADE another statement on Victoria's Courthouse. The cabinet, he says, has approved the Church Hill site for the new building—a wise decision.

Elections do not build a new courthouse for Victoria, but a new courthouse for Victoria is an essential plank in the building of an election platform.

Naturally. Only one day before Mr. Chant spoke, Mr. Bennett said he had no plans for an early election.

But, he adds, "there is no definite starting date of construction at this time."

THE TONGUE TWISTERS

By B. A. TOBIN

Verbal Camouflage

THESSE are days in which we pride ourselves on calling a spade a spade. We're in a period during which the English language has been rescued from the wordiness and circumlocution of earlier generations.

The simple word, the short sentence, the brief paragraph—these have become the ideals of today, in contrast to the extended and more leisurely prose of our grandfathers. Similarly the reader of today does not wish to waste any time stumbling over terms that are not immediately clear. Agricultural implement is much too much for him; it's spade or nothing today. A word not only has to mean what it says, but it has to be quick about it.

It was interesting to read the other day that the Forestry Act is being changed so that, instead of "forest management licences" it will refer to "tree farms". That's a shorter term and it more clearly expresses the intent of the legislation and the nature of the forest holdings—at least, that is the hope.

Down to Earth

Another move along these lines is the suggestion of Rear Admiral Ken Adams that the term "civil defence" should be replaced by a more realistic name such as "operation survival".

He seems to have a good point there. Actually, the period after an atomic bomb drops is not a time for defence but for sheer survival, and learning how to survive might appeal to the people more than learning how to defend themselves.

These terms, of course, have been proposed in an effort to improve the means of description. Sometimes labels are used for the opposite purpose. Particularly in an election campaign you are likely to hear some odd uses of the language.

The old joke about "a convert being a fellow who leaves their party to join ours and a deserter one who leaves our party to join theirs" can often be matched by real-life examples.

Contrary View

When "your" party amasses a surplus in public funds, for instance, this is merely providing for debt retirement and building a cushion against inflation. But when the other fellow's party does this, it is a barefaced withholding of the people's money which they should be spending themselves.

If your party budgets for a deficit, this is a planned excess of expenditure over revenue in order to free currency and stimulate buying. If the other fellow does it, of course, it's a horrible example of inept financing that has plunged the country into further debt.

Choice of words, indeed, depends a lot on point of view.

A bridge built by your party is a wise and timely provision of necessary transportation requirements indicating the concern of the government for the local residents. When the other party does it, it may become a spendthrift waste of public funds for the purpose of buying votes and winning political advantage.

A public works project by your party—a power dam, perhaps—is splendid evidence of the need for wise investment of public funds in development of the country. If the other party proposes it, it is obviously a greedy attempt to oust private enterprise and deny the right of the individual to a proper place in the development of this great land of ours.

An increase in civil service pay—by your party—is naturally a proper recognition of the services given by an able and devoted staff of workers. But if the other fellow's party does it, it could be squandering of the people's hard-earned money for the benefit of a favored few.

Heroes or Bums

When taxes go up, if your party raised them, this is a temporary move forced on the government by the peculiar needs of the times, including national defence and the generous social services provided by beneficent administration. If the other fellow raises them, anyone should be able to see that here we have a classic example of broken promises, disregard of the people's rights, and a deliberate attempt to deprive the working population of the just fruits of its labor.

When your candidate calls his audience intelligent and public-spirited he is merely stating a fact. When the other fellow does it he is resorting to shameful flattery to cajole favor.

When your man skips over several issues with hardly a mention it is because he prefers to deal with the really vital problems of the day for the good of the voters. When the other fellow ignores this item or that it is because he is afraid to stand up and be counted on these important issues, taking refuge instead in a lot of palaver about secondary matters.

And so it goes. What the speaker says and what the listener hears may be two entirely opposite things.

One man's meat is another man's poison, especially when it comes to a mouthful of words.

Boner?

The Motor Vehicle's licence plates for the centennial year 1958 for British Columbia are very unsatisfactory. Several complaints have been made both by the city police department and other people.

I find when there is a little dust or dirt on those 1958 centennial year licence plates they become unreadable, especially by the police departments all over the province of British Columbia.

It is important to have clear and readable licence plates at all times to keep down accidents on the road.

I beg to suggest that you insert in the column under the heading "Of Vic Says" at the bottom of page 1 Victoria Daily Times these following words:

"Boner made a Boner when he introduced the B.C. 1958 Centennial year Motor Vehicles' licence plates."

While Many Hunger

In the press we are frequently told of the distress of homeless and hopeless children in Korea and other lands and visitors acquainted with the facts tell of their struggle with disease and their search for food in refuse heaps and garbage cans.

We are shown their emaciated little hunger-racked bodies in pictures while here in America we do not know what to do with our surplus foods. While it is recognized that gifts of money could greatly alleviate the dire need of these thousands of suffering innocent children we seem to prefer building more churches at costs of $70,000 and more in cases.

Just what we hope these places will accomplish in bettering world conditions as things are at present is a problem.

Victoria Benefits

Why is so much emphasis put upon "people from the prairies" by Dr. Gordon T. Grant and Mr. Art Stott in their discussions of problems of people who have come to Victoria in their old age? Is the proportion of "hard up" prairie old people high in relation to the total of prairie people; is it higher than the proportion of those of English origin for instance?

The fact is that with the greatly improved comfort of living in prairie communities, most people there do consider carefully any suggestion to "move to the coast" at retirement, and definitely fewer of them are doing so—which is a considerable economic loss to B.C.! It would be a fair generalization to suggest that those who come now are only those who would be equally "lonely and bored" in those places where the necessities of retirement overtook them.

Is it possible that Dr. Grant and Mr. Stott are echoing the strong prejudice of natives of a somewhat earlier day, against "those awful people from east of the Rockies" without observing the very great changes wrought upon this neighborhood by the rapid increase to population in the last 15 years and the visible change of ethos? We elderly refugees notice that Victoria is no longer a city unfriendly to prairie people—it is now merely unfriendly, period. But friendliness is growing—friendliness with each other among newcomers. (How else did Lydia Arsenis from Alberta out two native ladies a few years ago?)

When Help Was Needed

When I read the report of the Canadian Red Cross Society's annual meeting held recently at Hotel Vancouver, I was reminded of when my father was taken acutely ill on VE day—April 1945—in Victoria, and when a major operation became necessary. The surgeon called for blood transfusions. How difficult it was then to procure the necessary blood, for there was no Canadian Red Cross Blood Donor Service. My blood, that of my cousins and friends who volunteered did not "match" my father's type of blood, and the need was urgent. Finally, I appealed to the Army and a volunteer came forward. Therefore I never cease to realize, as anyone should who has ever been in such a plight, or who has benefited from free blood transfusions, this invaluable service of the Red Cross, or in fact, any one of its many, other services to suffering humanity—at the moment—the magnificent part the Red Cross is playing in Newfoundland.

I have read recently that more and more people who have had a friend, or next of kin who has required blood transfusions become donors. Except for technicians and a small paid staff, there is, I know, more and more a score of women here who regularly volunteer their services at Red Cross House Blood Donor Clinic, to make up beds, man the coffee urns, act as checkers, etc.

At the present time there may be many people who this year, on account of being unemployed, will be unable to make their annual donation to this worthy cause. However, they need not be denied giving to the Red Cross, for instead they may give blood.

FROM LONDON

'Probably in October'

IN public, the British government is preparing for a summit meeting to "relax tensions" with a greater show of enthusiasm than any other Western government. But in private it is glumly admitted here that a powerful Soviet thrust at Britain's vitals is highly likely to be attempted shortly after the summit rally. The contrast between public official pronouncement and private official expectation is one of the striking features of the present London scene.

The thing specifically expected, moreover, is a development of extreme gravity, not only for Britain, but also for the Western Alliance as a whole.

For some months now, both the British and American governments have been nervously trying to assess reports of a secret Soviet promise to espouse the Arab cause against Israel. On the official level, the British have long since received warnings of this promise from both the Lebanese and the Iraqis.

The Saudi Arabian government has also been sending out warnings. This reporter first revealed what may be called the "problem of the promise" after a remarkably somber conversation with King Saudi's chief foreign affairs advisor in Ryad.

Secret Promise

There was a problem because it was so hard to tell whether the Soviet secret promise was real or imaginary; and whether, if real, the promise would finally be kept.

Now, however, the comforting doubts about the Soviet promise have been largely dispelled. Nothing in the future is ever sure, but the promise is believed to have been given and is expected to be kept, "probably next October."

The indications behind these conclusions are not known. Perhaps they have something to do with the recent London visit of Britain's leading Arab friend, the old Iraqi strong man, Nuri Pasha Es Said.

All of this no doubt sounds very remote and very unalarming. But in fact it can quite easily mean the final loss of the great and desperate game for the vital Middle East, which has been going worse and worse for the Western allies ever since the first Soviet intervention in the area, the arms deal with Egypt.

On the surface, the Soviets have merely promised to support the general Arab demand for Israel's return to the so-called U.N. frontiers of 1947—which is a demand for the dismemberment of existing Israel.

But beneath the surface, the Soviet maneuver will not be aimed to destroy the principal intended victim of this complex Soviet maneuver. If it takes place, it will seem to be aimed at Israel. It will really be aimed, in the first instance, at the friends of the West in the Arab lands. But in the final instance Britain will suffer a crippling blow.

In these circumstances, it seems fairly melancholy that no counter to the expected Soviet maneuver seems yet to have been invented in London or Washington.

It is certainly not effective to enter a "partition-Israel

Pardon My Stage Fright

NEXT week over 200 young people from local schools will take part in the 18th annual Greater Victoria Schools Drama Festival.

"I am not a first-nighter. I haven't seen a play since 'Streetcar' came to the Royal stage and I remember very few others except George Arliss in 'Old English,' Martin Harvey in 'The Cigarette-Maker's Romance' and 'The Only Way' and Paul Robeson and Jose Ferrer in 'Othello.'

Those productions were memorable to me because they passed my infallible test, of drama. Watching them, I didn't notice the hardness of the old Royal's seats. If you weren't aware of those seats, the play was superlative.

But if I'm not strictly "hep" on drama, I'm interested in the school festival for what it tries to do and the purposes behind it. The play's the thing; they say, but next week's productions will be important also for the influence they have on the players.

Gordon Mason has been explaining it to me.

GOOD TRAINING

There are fairly obvious benefits in being a member of a cast. In the first place, he points out, the play gives the young actors practice in voice production. It helps them to learn to speak up, to articulate properly, pay attention to pronunciation and, sometimes, acquire vocabulary.

Furthermore, it helps to stimulate imagination in a disciplined way. Virtually all kids have imagination. Very often it runs away with them. As they take a part in one of the stage events, they fit themselves into a different character, but where fancy might simply take flight and never come back to earth, the roles assigned to them establish their own limits.

Then, says Gordon, the youngsters participating find a high recreational value in putting on the show. It fosters co-operation, since they're members of a team making a team effort. And it encourages the competitive spirit, because they want to win a good adjudication.

They benefit from the criticism passed upon their work, and they evidently learn to accept criticism, because they come back in future years for more.

Possibly of even greater significance, the festival gives a lot of young people an introduction to drama, to live stage. And after that introduction, it helps those who perform to improve their critical faculties.

If you'll pardon a shopworn phrase, it helps to develop cultural appreciation. The kid who has acted in a school production knows a little better what to look for in other stage presentations. He can judge, to a degree, by his own experience how well an actor is carrying a role, how natural he makes it, what he contributes to making the play go. He may also learn to recognize good work in the scenery and its arrangement.

KEENER APPRECIATION

He becomes infinitely more conscious of the multitude of ingredients which go into a satisfactory play than if he had merely been one of the audience. When, in turn, he is part of that audience he can draw a keener enjoyment from a good production because he can see excellence in technique which may not be noticeable to someone who has never played a part or helped with scenery.

Add to all this the confidence it gives a lot of young people who, without experience before the footlights, were shy and you have an idea of some of the benefits from participation.

I suggested to Mr. Mason that sometimes that confidence was a bit overdone among juveniles, that what they call noise sometimes can be mistaken by people like me for brashness.

It could be said Mr. Mason, but did I find that only in children who had been in the drama festival?

These are not considerations which a member of the audience should keep before him when he's watching an entry in the largest school drama festival in Canada here next week. They're worth thinking about, though, before and after.

While the show's on, why, there are only two points to keep in mind: The play's the thing, and if it takes your mind of the hardness of the seats, it must be good.

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Varicose Veins

Emmett Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

The American Heart Association recently published a good booklet on varicose veins. As the author says, if a million or so years ago, our ancestors had only been content to remain on all fours, and had not gotten up and walked on their hind legs, we probably wouldn't have our present troubles with big and dilated veins.

Many persons probably have some inherited tendency to weak veins or to poor valves in their veins and tend in middle life to get into trouble with varicose (enlarged and tortuous) veins. Many get into trouble when they have an attack of phlebitis after an operation or having a baby. Then it is hard on them if they have to stand at work all day. Gravity exerts a big pull on the long column of blood which runs up from the feet to the groin and then on up to the right side of the heart. Normally, there are valves which help greatly by breaking up the long column of blood, but when the veins dilate, the valves no longer close tight and then things can go from bad to worse.

Often, after a person has gone for years with large veins, complications come with swelling and poor circulation around the ankles, from irritation and darkening of the skin on the inner side of the ankle, and then finally from chronic ulceration of the skin in this area. Often these ulcers can be healed only by grafting new skin over them. Many persons could have avoided getting into serious trouble if they had only started earlier to wear a supportive bandage or one of the new elastic stockings which doesn't show very much.

As the author of the booklet says, people with bad veins shouldn't try to earn their living standing up all day, like a policeman or an elevator operator, or a salesperson. A sitting-down job would be much better. On a trip on a plane or a train, it is good for the person to get up occasionally and walk around a little; on a long auto trip the person would do well to get out every so often to stretch his legs. When watching television it helps to have the feet up on a stool and, again, to get up occasionally and walk around.

A man with bad veins who can put his feet up on his desk while working can get much relief. Exercises such as walking and swimming can help in improving circulation in the veins. People with bad veins should avoid tight garters. Women should watch out that their elastic girdles do not interfere with the circulation in their thighs, especially when they have to sit for hours as in an airplane. If a woman with a tendency to bad veins or an old "milk leg" wants to avoid trouble, she had better not get fat. That will only add to her troubles.

A good idea for women who are working in the kitchen is to sit on a stool with their feet resting on a rung. This can be done by men who are working at a bench.

Some physicians try to inject an irritant substance into big veins, hoping to cause the walls to stick together, but as the author of the booklet says, the results are usually temporary. For large veins surgical treatment is needed. They can be "stripped" out by an expert, using a special instrument. He makes only a few tiny cuts. After removal of the large superficial veins, the blood goes up through deeper veins which are surrounded and supported and kneaded by muscle.

INCOME TAX TIPS

Clear Writing Speeds Handling

If a new arrival in Canada, date of entry and employer's name or names must also be clearly listed.

Many returns list names of their children but not the ages. Without the ages the claim is incomplete and the refund delayed.

Don't forget to show addresses of other dependents, ages and similar information if you are making a claim for them.

A properly completed return will save up to three weeks in getting a refund if one is claimed.

But, and it's a big BUT, if you realize an error has been made on your original submission, do not file another return. Write the Income Tax Department, Belmont Building, giving your full name, address, and the correct information.

Make sure your Christian name and family name are legible on page one, as illegible writing causes delay in processing your return.

Necessarily also is the name of the employer, your address at Dec. 31, 1957, and your 1956 address if it has changed since then.

These details are vital; do not confuse them.

UBC DENTISTRY SCHOOL PLEDGED GOV'T BACKING

Full government support for a school of dentistry at the University of B.C. was pledged Thursday by Education Minister Leslie Peterson.

The minister said, however, that it is up to the university to decide if and when it wants to set up a dental faculty.

He made the statement after Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo-Slocan), said seven-eighths of B.C. has inadequate dental services and the province must train more dentists.

Gov't Backs Down As Delay Asked On Education Vote

The Opposition won one of its rare parliamentary victories in the Legislature Thursday.

The issue arose during consideration of department of education estimates for 1958-59.

CCF Leader Robert Strachan argued that a vote of $43,658,000 for grants to local school boards should be held over until the government introduces its new amendments to the Public Schools Act.

BACKS DOWN

The government at first insisted that the vote must be passed, but later backed down in the face of determined protests from the Opposition benches.

Mr. Strachan maintained that a parliamentary principle was at stake in that the House was being asked to approve money for as yet undetermined expenditures.

The legislature should be given a chance to study the proposed changes in school costs financing before passing the vote, he said.

George Gregory (Lib., Victoria) said he was not prepared to vote the government "a blank cheque."

80% OF TOTAL

The vote, increased by some $4,750,000 over last year, represents 80 per cent of the total education department budget. Mr. Strachan pointed out.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson and acting House leader Attorney-General Bonner maintained that the vote must go through.

Mr. Bonner sent out for Premier Bennett, however, and the premier returned to the House to okay the hoisting of the vote.

FOUR IN CAR

City policeman Cons. Louis E. Pletz said he stopped an old model coupe on Quadra near Hillside at about 2 a.m. Sept. 24. There were four youths in it, one shirtless with blood on his chest and blood on hands and clothes of the others.

Car owner David Ready, 24, was found guilty of assaulting Miller and sentenced to jail.

One of the others gave his name as Bert Racket, 935 North Park. This was found to be Wright, who when asked why he gave a false name was quoted by police as saying "Just for a lark."

He left the city the same day and was arrested on Gladstone Avenue five months later.

Education Minister Leslie Peterson and acting House leader Attorney-General Bonner maintained that the vote must go through.

'Buy British in Free Mart'

If the Progressive Conservative government remains in office "you are going to pay more for British goods, particularly textiles and automobiles," Liberal candidate Geoffrey Ellis said Thursday.

Addressing 27 Oak Bay residents in Monterey School, he said main aim of the Liberal party would be to seek the means of increasing the Canadian trade volume.

He advocated buying more British goods "in a free market."

Liberal Leader Lester Pearson, he pointed out, had undertaken to reopen negotiations with the British on their free trade offer.

$40,000 LIBEL FOR EX-MAYOR APPROVED

TORONTO (CP)—The private bills committee of the Ontario Legislature, Thursday, voted 14-11 in favor of empowering Toronto City Council to pay $40,000 in damages and costs assessed against former Mayor Allan Lampert in a libel action.

Damages of $25,000 and costs of about $15,000 were assessed against Mr. Lampert in a libel action brought against him in 1954 by Toronto taxicab operator Thomas Ross. Mr. Lampert at the time was mayor and the action arose from remarks he made concerning issuing of taxi licences.

City council had voted 14-8 to ask for the legislation.

"In fact," he said, "this draft agreement is just a copy of the agreement signed by Ontario. It is obvious that the federal government is not as anxious to have British Columbians benefit under this plan as it is to have Ontario's people participate."

"Don't forget we have a Conservative government in Ottawa," remarked Randolph Harding (CCF-Kaslo Slocan).

"Exactly," replied Mr. Martin triumphantly.

"It is certainly not to the credit of the federal government that all provinces should not receive this draft agreement at the same time," said Mr. Harding.

Mr. Martin recalled that B.C. was the first province in Canada to signify in 1956 its willingness to enter.

"We have always co-operated in every possible manner to ensure the smooth and speedy start of the national plan. We have played host to many delegations from the federal government as well as from many provincial governments, all of whom sought information they

Like Anybody Else, Matt Runs Into a Few Snags

Crowd Figure Over 26,000; Three-Way Playoff Possible

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Matt Baldwin, a man dedicated to a cause, was feeling a trifle apprehensive today as play in the Canadian curling championships reached the final rounds.

The 31-year-old Edmonton skip isn't a great worrier, but there was cause for concern in the Alberta camp as the rink, hoping to give Matt his third Canadian championship, moved against Ontario's Murray Roberts in an all-important meeting this morning.

Baldwin was to face Nova Scotia on this afternoon's draw—the final one in the tournament. And nobody expects Nova Scotia, with only two victories to their credit in their first eight starts, to beat Baldwin, even on one of his poorest days.

Baldwin slipped once Thursday and, despite the fact he bounced back with two impressive victories, his 10-8 upset at the hands of Saskatchewan placed today's burden on Ontario.

If Roberts can manage to defeat Baldwin, then the possibility of a three-way playoff days.

Manitoba's teenagers bounced into contention and changed the entire complexion of the race for the Brier Tankard by defeating Ontario 13-7 on Thursday's late draw. Thus Alberta ended the day's play with a 7-1 record while Ontario and Manitoba each showed 6-2 marks.

Winnipeg Youngsters Bounce Back

But while Manitoba, skipped by 18-year-old Terry Bräunlein of Winnipeg, surged into the picture, the big game was the Baldwin-Roberts clash.

British Columbia moved into the final day with a 5-3 record and only a slim, mathematical chance of winning the coveted Tankard. They were dormited—two down with two to go—after two impressive victories Thursday. Skipped by veteran Tony Gutoski of Victoria, B.C. thumped

Northern Ontario 13-9 and Saskatchewan 14-6.

The "ifs" and "buts" that were being used in connection with today's windup were many. One thing was certain, however, and that was the fact that Victoria's first chance to play host to the classic is going to be a success.

The largest crowd ever to watch a single curling draw in B.C.—4,039 paid—turned out to Memorial Arena Thursday evening, raising the week-long count to 26,500. Approximately 2,400 tickets have been sold in advance of today's two draws, thus assuring total ticket sales of $31,000 for the 11 draws.

Additional sales today is almost certain to push the total past 32,000, second only to the record 51,725 set at Regina in 1955. Last year, only 14,000 paid to see the games in Kingston.

Until today, Edmonton's 1954 figure of 32,000 has been second best.

Heaneys to Meet Wests Saturday In Soccer Replay

No decision was reached last weekend in the Division III championship of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association and Victoria West will meet Heaneys, Saturday, in a replay of the match.

Teams played to a 2-2 draw and go at it again at Carnarvon Park, starting at 1:30 p.m.

A second Lower Island championship will be at stake Saturday when Division IV Optimists and Hampton Eagles clash at Bullen Park at 10:30 a.m.

The Boston Bruins came from behind to gain a 4-4 tie with the last-place Chicago Black Hawks Thursday night and move into a third-place tie with the Detroit Red Wings.

Montreal Canadiens already have clinched the regular-season pennant and the second-place New York Rangers, six points up on the Red Wings and Bruins, just about have that spot sewed up. With the fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs seven points off the pace, it seems almost certain that Montreal, New York, Detroit and Boston will compete in the playoffs.

The Boston Bruins have eight games left to play to the Red Wings' nine.

Playing without goalie Harry Lumley and down 4-2 after the first minute of the final period, Boston made a fine comeback which Jerry Toppazzini completed at 11:57.

Toppazzini golled at the puck in a mad scramble and the roll rolled over the body of fallen goalie Glenn Hall into the net.

Buddy Boone had pulled Boston to 4-3 at 4:37 of the final period when he converted a Larry Regan pass from directly in front.

Lumley, the regular Boston goalie since mid-January, was out with a foot infection and Courtenay, on the other hand, will be sporting three players from Cumberland's 1957 Island champions.

Bill Mossey, Mike Potkrajc and Danny Bulatovich are all taking their senior matriculation teams in Courtenay High School and will line up with the team on opening day.

Three, and possibly four, teams will represent the Island at the provincial playdowns March 12 through 15 at UBC's Memorial gym.

These three dark horses give Towhees the advantage both in experience and proven merit.

Bulatovich was chosen for the

Cougars Expect Warm Greeting

By The Canadian Press

Victoria Cougars, with an even break to date on their tour of Prairie-Division cities, are looking forward to a warm reception in Edmonton tonight.

The welcoming committee may be thin as a result of injuries to members of Flyers' Western Hockey League team, but the Cats can count on a chap by the name of Colin Kilburn being at the head of the parade.

It will be Cougars' first—and only—visit to Edmonton since they released Kilburn as manager and then traded him to Edmonton for forwards Denny Olson and Tom McCarthy.

Olson, perhaps warming up for the reception, hammered home two goals Thursday night to help Victoria to a 6-5 victory over Saskatoon-St. Paul Regals.

Cougars opened their tour earlier in the week, losing 1-4 to Winnipeg "Warriors".

Doug Macauley, a native of Edmonton, also scored twice in the battle of tail-enders.

Cougars are firmly entrenched in last place in the coast division and the Regals hold down the same position in the prairie division.

Gordie Wilson and Gordie Haworth picked up single goals for the Cougars.

For the Regals, Les Colwill was the big gun, connecting for three goals. Singles went to Doc Couture and Vic Lynn.

Regals, who absorbed their fourth straight setback, trailed 2-1 at the end of the first period and 3-2 at the end of the second.

B.C. TITLE AT STAKE

Cross Country Grind Attracts Top Talent

Some of the top British Columbia junior running stars will compete at Victoria High school March 15 in the third annual B.C. cross country championships.

Fifteen teams are expected to enter the running for the provincial crown, the majority of them from the mainland.

Vic High, present holder of the title, will have a six-man team consisting of Simon Princenburgh, John Cliff, Jim Robertson, Monty Vanden, Martin Jay, and Palle Jensen.

Princenburgh is rated as the top Victoria threat although he was edged by Cliff in their last meeting.

Jim Waters of Shawnigan Lake is another top Island entry. Waters edged Princenburgh in the Intermediate division of the Canadian Legion championships last fall.

POTENT TRIO

Among the Mainland entrants, South Burnaby's Seigmar Olaham, Canadian junior quarter-mile champion; John Oliver's Glen Ferguson, holder of the provincial junior mile record who finished in the runner-up spot last year, and Glen Hugo of Lester Pearson, Vancouver high school mile champ, comprise a potent triple threat for individual honors, won by Vic High's Ian Fraser in the first two years of the event.

The 3½-mile B.C. event will start and finish on the Vic High cinder track. Mainland squads expected to line up against Vancouver Island entrants at 2 p.m. are from Britannia, Lord Byng, John Oliver, King Edward, South Burnaby, Lester Pearson, and Vancouver Technical.

Uplands Medal Golf

Mrs. W. S. Smith won 'A' division of the Uplands Golf Club ladies' monthly medal round Tuesday when she carded a score of 90-14-76 while Mrs. G. H. Lovitt took honors in 'B' division with a score of 101-30-71.

the Canadians piled up six goals in the first period.

Quiet prevailed through the second period but pandemonium broke loose in the third after a Swedish defenceman fouled usally mild-mannered Jack McKenzie and got away with it. Before the period ended 13 penalties had been handed out—nine to the Canadians. In all, Canada picked up 13 of the 19 penalties in the game.

"The officiating was terrible," said Blair, adding that he plans official protest to J. F. "Bunny" Ahearne, president of International Ice Hockey Federation. "The referees are not giving the Canadians the protection they are entitled to. I'm not saying anything against the Swedes. They were out of control."

Sweden's team manager, Folke Jansson, also blamed the referees, Toni Neumaier, of West Germany, and Andre Starovolsky, of Russia, for the trouble, but he was not happy with the Canadian brand of hockey.

Jansson accused the Canadians of playing dirty and claimed: "They used a lot of dirty tricks—stick hooking, elbowing and so on."

Player coach Sid Smith, who scored two goals against the Swedes, said some of his players were "elbowed, hooked and hit over the head with sticks." Smith added: "The referees completely lost control of this match."

RUSSIANS SECOND

The Canadian win dropped Sweden out of the unbeaten and untied class into fourth place, while the Canadians took over the top spot with eight points, one more than the Russians, who had been tied once. The Czechs are third with two victories and two ties.

In other games of a full schedule Thursday, the Russians swamped winless Poland 10-1. Czechoslovakia and the United States battled to a 2-2 tie and Finland won its first game of the tournament 2-1 over Norway.

Today, three games were scheduled. In addition to the Canadian-Czech match which is expected to be interesting since the Czechs play the nearest thing to Canadian-style hockey in Europe, the Russians met the Americans while Sweden played the Poles in a morning match.

In the Canada-Sweden match Thursday, McKenzie was cross-checked on the mouth with less than 10 minutes left to play by Lasse Bjorn, a mountainous Swedish backliner.

When this escaped the referees' notice, he followed up a few seconds later by an elbow in McKenzie's face. McKenzie was soon into action and players from both sides joined in the melee.

Bjorn was a marked man after that.

Smith and George (Goose) Gosselin led the Canadian assault with two goals each, while Tommy O'Connor scored once. Nils Nilsson and Ronald Pettersson scored for Sweden.

Gordon Roy Edwards had an easy time in the Canadian nets with 17 saves while Sweden's Tord Flodquist was called on to make 32.

A young man came into the company office and asked to use the telephone.

When he returned the man was gone, but the spaniel had followed and was barking at the heels of the stranger.

Mr. Thomas soon discovered what happened. Some $345 in currency had been stolen from the office.

PAY TAXES FOR AGED SAYS LIBERAL

SIDNEY — Esquimalt-Saanich Liberal candidate George Preston, speaking at a meeting here this week, advocated a national contributory super-annuation plan and payment by the federal government of old age pensioners' municipal taxes.

"There is no reason why all workers should not enjoy benefits now held by a few under private plans," he said.

He also said rising municipal taxes are working a hardship on old age pensioners, "in some cases to the point where they may lose their homes."

Mayor Jordon Opposes Amalgamation

POR ALBERNI — Mayor Loran K. Jordon told local Jaycees Thursday night that Port Alberni would gain nothing through amalgamation with Alberni.

Eric Charman, Victoria Jaycee, told the group here earlier in the week that the twin cities had "lived together in sin so long . . . they should be joined in the holy bonds of amalgamation."

The mayor, said, however, that from a moral standpoint it did not seem fair for Port Alberni alone to benefit from the industries located within its boundaries.

SOLUTION MONDAY

By FREEMAN KING

Sidney Group: A combined meeting of the Cubs and Scouts was held recently when Scouter Glen Oliphant, one of the leaders of the B.C. contingent to the world jamboree held last year in England, gave an interesting talk and showed colored slides of the event.

More than 120 Brownies, Guides, Cubs and Scouts, together with their leaders, attended a special service at St. Andrew's Church, on Sunday, Feb. 23, in commemoration of the birth of Scouting's founder, Lord Baden-Powell.

Rev. Roy Melville conducted the service.

Douglas Alexander has been awarded his signaller's badge, which is one of the badges required for a Queen's Scout award.

During the past week several Sidney bridge and canasta parties have been held to help raise funds for the Cubs and Scouts.

Amongst the hosts are Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Evans, Mrs. E. Kingrie, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Taylor, Mrs. S. N. Magee and the Cub and Scout Mothers' group.

Prize-winners include Mrs. C. Walker, Mrs. B. Andrews, W. Croft, Mrs. R. J. McLellan, D. Butler, Mrs. S. N. Magee, T. Verbury, J. Wilkinson, Mrs. H. M. Taylor, Mrs. J. Andrews, Mrs. B. Eokert and Miss Joan Chamberlain.

Maurice Connor, a member of the Victoria district Scout council, will address a meeting to be held in the Scout Hall next Monday at 8 p.m. Representatives from Saanichton, Brentwood and Deep Cove will be present to formulate plans in the nervous system.

All this and other information is flashed along the nerves to the brain. The brain sorts the information and, when necessary, makes decisions and gives orders. When you put your hand accidentally on a hot stove, it comes off in a flash. The information 'hot! danger!' has been sent to the brain, decisions made and orders to move have been given without your realizing it. The brain may even order a yell for good measure.

Work Tires Nervous System

Imagine all the work that goes on in the nervous system every minute you are awake. All this work uses up energy. Waste materials are created in the process. During a busy day the nervous system gets clogged, choked and tired. Fatigue may be a chemical upset in the nervous system.

When this happens, the alert centres of the nervous system simply close down. Impressions from the busy world are shut off. The communication system is taking no more messages today, thank you. You close your eyes and fall asleep.

Eyes, ears and other senses close down entirely. However, an emergency such as cold, fire or a loud noise will alert them and wake you up. Other operations in the body merely slow down. Breathing and the heart beat go on, though more slowly.

While you sleep, the nervous system repairs itself. We do not know how this happens or even what has to be done. But after a good night's sleep the nervous system is refreshed, ready and eager to carry a million messages throughout the body.

So far as we know, sleep seems to be necessary to the nervous system which keeps mind and body working in harmony. Without proper and regular sleep the body breaks down and the mind becomes dull.

Andy sends a Hammond's Ambassador World Atlas to Charles Peffley, age 12, of Spokane, Washington, for his question:

How deep is the Atlantic Ocean?

The Atlantic is the world's second largest ocean. It covers an area of about 31,830,800 square miles, which makes it big enough to swallow the Americas twice over. If it had one million square miles more it would be half as big as the vast Pacific.

The floors of the oceans are far from smooth and flat. There are hills and dales, deep valleys and massive mountain ranges. A map of the sea bed is all higgledy piggledy like a map of the dry land. Hence the Atlantic is deeper in some places than in others.

We can, however, form a rough estimate of the average depth. The average depth of the Atlantic is said to be 12,800 feet—over two miles. But we know of a few spots far deeper than this. Off Puerto Rico is a deep trench in the floor of the Atlantic. One part of this trench is 30,246 feet below the surface of the sea. Here the Atlantic is over five miles deep.

A-G Says Ontario Drug Racket Hub

Available evidence indicates the province of Ontario may be the centre of the illicit narcotics trade in Canada. Attorney-General Bonner said Wednesday.

Mr. Bonner made the statement in the Legislature in disputing an assertion by George Gregory (Liberal, Victoria) that British Columbia is the centre of the drug traffic.

The matter is "debatable", the attorney-general said.

Mr. Bonner said a resolution proposed by Mr. Gregory calling for a "vigorous campaign" to wipe out the narcotics racket was out of order. He was upheld by Speaker Hugh Shantz.

"Within the laws of the country, an entirely vigorous campaign is already under way," Mr. Bonner said.

The attorney-general added, however, that a uniform policy should be adopted across the country in respect to drug addiction, in place of the different approaches now used in the various provinces.

In his resolution, Mr. Gregory said that of 745 penitentiary inmates in Canada convicted under the Opium and Narcotic Act or who have a record of drug addiction, 358 are in the British Columbia Penitentiary.

"I don't believe anyone in British Columbia should rest-content with the drug addiction problem," the Liberal member said.

Unlucky Ship Grounds On Fraser Rock Jetty

Sudbury, Tow Heading Home

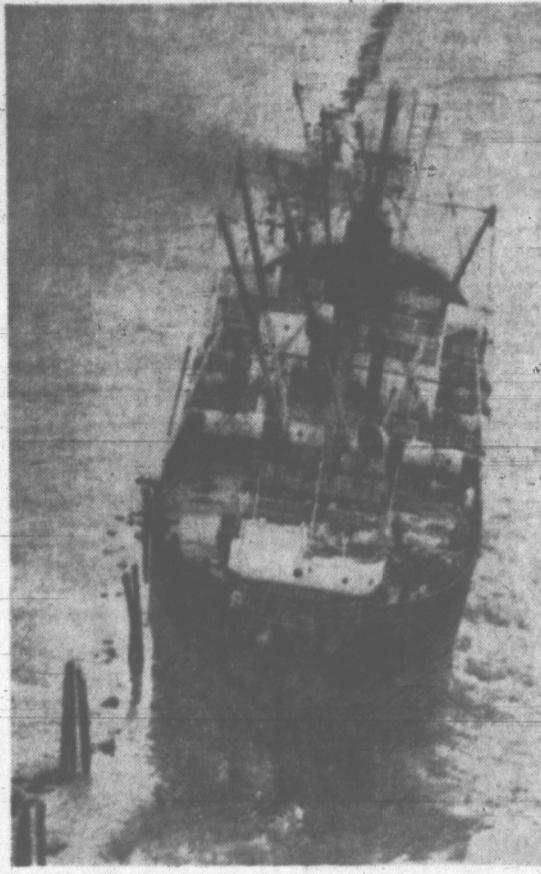

The Victoria-based deep-sea salvage tug Ss. Sudbury has taken the propellerless freighter Andros Legend in tow, and is heading toward Cape Flattery.

In a brief wireless message to the owners, Island Tug & Barge Ltd., Capt. Harley Blagbome today reported:

"Have Andros Legend in tow. Point of contact 41 deg. 35 min. North, 166 deg. 47 min. West at 2015 (8:15 p.m., Pacific Standard Time.)

No mention was made of weather conditions, so they are presumed favorable.

Tug and tow are nearly 2,000 miles west of Vancouver Island. It is expected to take about two weeks to cover the distance.

Hard-luck ship in trouble again. (AP Wirephoto.)

Pulled Free By Two Tugs

The hard-luck freighter Lomaland, which arrived at Victoria under tow a week ago, had trouble again today when she went hard aground in the North Arm of the Fraser River at 8:40 a.m.

She was in danger of taking a heavy pounding when two tugs of Straits Towing Co. managed to get her free at 11 a.m.

Previously she had run out of fuel 400 miles off the West Coast of Vancouver Island, and was towed, through heavy seas, to Victoria for bunkers.

ROCK JETTY

She proceeded to the mainland under her own power, and was shifting berth today when the accident happened. It is believed the Lomaland had propeller trouble, and a sharp 35-mile-per-hour southeast breeze drove her into a rock jetty marking the limits of the ship channel.

The tugs Superior Straits and Johnston Straits were sent to her aid. They had difficulty at first getting line aboard, due to the direction of the wind. Forecast was for the wind to haul around to the west and increase in velocity this afternoon, which could have caused heavy damage.

The tugs managed to get the ship off on the morning tide, and at noon she was being towed to Burrard Drydock for survey and necessary repairs.

On the earlier tow, when she ran out of fuel, the freighter was picked up by Island Tug & Barge Co.'s Sudbury, later transferred to Island Sovereign to release Sudbury to aid Ss. Andros Legend, far out in the Pacific.

'Corner Store' Definition Asked

Victoria city solicitor T. P. O'Grady will be sent to the Parliament Buildings Saturday for a definition of a "corner store."

Proposed amendments to the Municipal Act will give the city power it wants so grocery dealers can remain open evenings.

But council finance committee is uncertain how to word a by-law which will limit the concession to small neighborhood retailers.

Man Convicted Of Stealing Gas With Hose, Jug

Gordon Brown, 26, of 857 Pine, was found guilty in city court today of theft under $50 and was remanded to Thursday for a probation report.

The accused, in company with a 16-year-old youth, had siphoned two gallons of gas from a truck in the Louis Nelson parking lot, Johnson Street, Tuesday night. They were picked up by city police shortly after the theft and a rubber hose and gallon jug was found in the back of the car.

Brown stated he sat in the car while his friend siphoned the gas.

The youth is in Juvenile Detention Home and will be dealt with by juvenile authorities.

Nineteen Recruits Join Princess Pots

Nineteen recruits were accepted into the First Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry today, following a five-week winter training course at Albert Head.

The recruits, all from Edmonton headquarters, were welcomed by the commanding officer, Lieut. Col. Thomas De Faye.

The soldiers will be attached to "C" company under Major Ronald Kerfoot.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—We read a lot about what is going on for the Centennial year in B.C., but I would like to get a list of specific events and dates to send to our friends who are planning to visit here this year. Would you print this?

—Mrs. W. A. Bray.

A.—From time to time the Times prints the monthly schedule of events in this area. The complete calendar for B.C. lists many hundreds of events. Your best bet would be to obtain a Centennial calendar from the B.C. Centennial office on Broughton Street.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily, and all questions will receive answers in terms of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums.

MONTE ROBERTS

We said au revoir to Rear-Admiral Ken Adams yesterday.

Ken is leaving the navy on reaching retirement age in April, and the au revoir was more to his navy career than to Ken himself.

He'll be back. He has a civilian job lined up, a public relations job with the Westinghouse people. And when he eventually retires from THAT job, he is coming to Victoria to retire.

Being an Adams, this makes sense. The first Adams to arrive in B.C. was Ken's great-grandfather, John R. Adams, who was born in New Brunswick to Empire Loyalist parents, came to B.C. in the 1860's.

Ken's grandfather was one of the big men in the lamented sealing industry here in the 80's and 90's, and was a partner in a ship chandling company.

Thus Ken's father was brought up on the waterfront, went on sealing voyages when he was in knee pants, later became an enthusiastic and expert yachtsman.

So it's not surprising that young Adams decided on a seagoing career, and it's only logical he'll come back here to wind up his life, which has been a very full one, indeed.

While we were saying au revoir—very pleasantly, in the HMCS Malahat wardroom—Ken recalled a column in this space which revealed the fact that this distinguished admiral was, from time to time, told off by his wife to scrub the kitchen floor.

The idea of an admiral swabbing the deck under the watchful eye of his superior officer, namely his wife, apparently caught the imagination of his naval colleagues, and he took a rather extensive ribbing, for which he didn't thank me at all.

But Ken now reports he has this problem licked, and would like to pass on his solution for the benefit of other husbands.

Ken suddenly remembered an old football injury which caused trouble in his back.

With the co-operation of a friendly surgeon-commander, the admiral was able to produce proof he was unfit for kitchen floor duty.

The disease from which he is suffering? Albinism.

With which thought we say farewell, Admiral Adams. May your future be electrifying.

The 37-ton tank, 106 feet long and 11 feet in diameter, is the largest ever hauled by the CPR.

It also is the largest ever built in Canada, and likely on the North American Continent, and certainly will be the largest to be used for this purpose in the oil industry.

65 TONS

Designed to contain butane, the tank is designed to accommodate 150 pounds pressure per square inch. The propane tanks, of which 11 will be built, will weigh 65 tons each and will be designed for a pressure of 225 pounds. All 18 will be the same size and shape.

According to T. A. Kennedy, company sales manager, the tank will make the trip on two railroad cars.

"In one tunnel in the Rockies, clearance will be only three inches," he said. "We had to consult with the railroad about limitations even before we bid on the tanks."

Value of the 18-tank contract, won in competitive bidding against Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg firms, is "close to $500,000," Mr. Kennedy said.

PROUD

"We are proud of the fact that we won the contract even though our wages are 30 cents an hour above those in Alberta, and slightly higher than Vancouver," he said. "On top of that, we had to absorb freight costs of $40,000. It means simply that we will produce faster and better than the others."

The contract was awarded a month ago, and an assembly line system established. Starting with this first tank, they will be leaving the company's Bay Street plant at the rate of one a week.

Route of the big load was via Bay, Douglas, Johnson and Esquimalt Road to the government drydock, where it was loaded from a truck to E&N railroad cars. It will be hauled by slow train during daylight hours only.

WINNER of a $300 Hudson's Bay Co. scholarship this year is J. Tom English, 19-year-old sophomore at Victoria College. The announcement was made jointly today by the college and the HBC. The award, made on the basis of academic standing, ability, personality and interest in a merchandising career, also carries a guarantee of summer employment at the department store. English, captain of the college Vikings basketball team and president of men's athletics, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. English, 311 Rutledge. He earned a first-class average at college last year. —(Times photo).

Canadian Legion Branch 172, Esquimalt, has granted a $5,584 contract for renovations to the Legion hall to Blake and Hanseysides.

A badly-cut thief is nursing his wounds today, with only $40 in cash and a small quantity of cigarettes to show for them.

Things went wrong from the start for the thief who broke into a Safeway Store at Tillicum and Burnside overnight. Saanich police found a good deal of blood in front of the store, apparently caused when he threw a rock through the window.

SQUEEZED IN

The hole was not large enough to climb through, so the thief smashed another smaller window at the rear and then squeezed between two bars to gain entrance.

He took $40 from the cash register but failed in an attempt to open the safe.

Victoria May Save Face For Toronto

If Sir Winston Churchill will come to Victoria, Mayor Percy Scurrah will extend a courtesy

Toronto may have to renege on—and make the former Prime Minister of Britain a freeman of the city.

Mayor Scurrah laughed gleefully at an earlier report that Toronto mayor Nathan Phillips had offered the honor to "Winnie" then found out Toronto doesn't have such an honor to offer.

"I will write Nate and extend our sorrow that the queen city of Ontario is in such a fix. We'll be glad to arrange to extend this rare honor."

Victoria has only one living freeman-strait swimmer Bert Thomas. A British subject so named may be elected to civic office and his name heads the civic voters' list. Mr. Thomas' U.S. nationality makes his freemanship an honorary distinction only.

A fall from a moving car sent Mrs. Margaret Winslow, 70, 1044 Craigdarroch, to Royal Jubilee Hospital Thursday afternoon with lacerations to ankle and hand.

She is in good condition today.

Mrs. Winslow had been walking from the driveway of her home when she fell out of her car. The car rolled across the street and struck a stone wall in front of 1037 Craigdarroch. Damage was slight to the wall, moderate to the car.

Ludwig Hafnerichter, 435 on one-way street.

In city police court today:

Quebec, $25 for speeding over 30;

Ernest Frederick Marshall, 958 Victoria, $25 for violating restrictions on driver's license;

Kathleen Ena Hall, 3014 Leigh, $5 for driving wrong way on one-way street.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Condition of two brothers involved in a traffic accident near Parson's Bridge Feb. 27 had improved to "good" today at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Archie McWhirter, 28, 1464 Begbie, and Hugh McWhirter, 35, 844 Esquimalt, sustained head and face injuries when their truck was in collision with another truck driven by B. G. Patrick Colcough, 46, Glen Lake Road. Colcough has been released from hospital. He received a fractured arm and broken ribs.

Heavy damage resulted from a basement fire at the home of H. A. Winterburn, 2641 Graham, shortly after 2 a.m. today. City fire department is investigating cause of the fire.

Archie De Bois and Gordon Sillars were fined $25 each in city police court today for causing a public disturbance in the 600 block Johnson Street Thursday night. They pleaded guilty to the charge. Court was told the accused had been punching and kicking each other, and had continued to fight in the police patrol car after being picked up.

A panel discussion on a new book entitled, "Prescriptions for Survival," by Dr. Brock Chisholm, will be held at the meeting of the Victoria Humanist Fellowship Group at Woodsworth Hall, 721 Courtney, at 8 p.m. Sunday.

A four-car collision was touched off when Mrs. Doris Wickett, 216 Superior, stopped on Bay Street at Fifth, Thursday afternoon, to avoid hitting a dog. Other cars, travelling behind the Wickett car, involved in the collision were driven by Miss S. O'Reilly, 3875 Cedar Hill; George Thomas, 2527 Kilgary, and Thomas D. W. McCullough, 1769 Bay.

They were Samuel J. Patterson, 1503 Charlton, and Ernest Criss Day, 663 McKenzie, who faced two charges and paid $25 fine on each.

Writer-traveller Pierre de Bois Deffre will address the L'Alliance Francaise March 11 at 8 p.m. in the Ewing Building, Victoria College, on the life of Albert Camus, French dramatist and essayist.

Subject of his address will be "A Saint Without God."

M. Deffre's specialty is 20th century French authors.

Here's a Protein Bread As Nourishing As Steak!

By PENNY SAVER

You don't have to feel guilty every time you eat a slice of protein bread. What is it? The latest in health bread . . . a cross between a white and brown loaf and it's just bulging with the protein that is so important in your diet. You see, a research foundation has developed a protein concentrate derived from a unique combination of grains. When it is baked into bread it gives you protein, just as a large steak does. Protein helps the body build and repair bones, nerves and muscles. So in what better form could you take it than in bread? At 25 cents a loaf you are getting a bargain indeed!

Lenten meals start to become a problem just about now! It seems you've served so many "unmeated" dishes during the past two weeks, you're wondering if you can continue to think up new and interesting ones.

Just wait until you hear about the cod special on in town at the moment. For 35 cents a pound, you can buy sliced cod. Fry it, cream it, bake it or steam it . . . it's economical and delicious any way you prepare it!

Shopping for the weekend groceries? Give me a call at 23131!

P.S.—And if you are planning to brighten your home with some spring flowers this weekend, I know where daffodils, iris and many other blooms can be bought for as little as 19 cents a dozen!

"Do you realize the groceries cost at least a foot-and-a-half more this week than they did last week?"

Acknowledging Wedding Gifts: Louise Davis

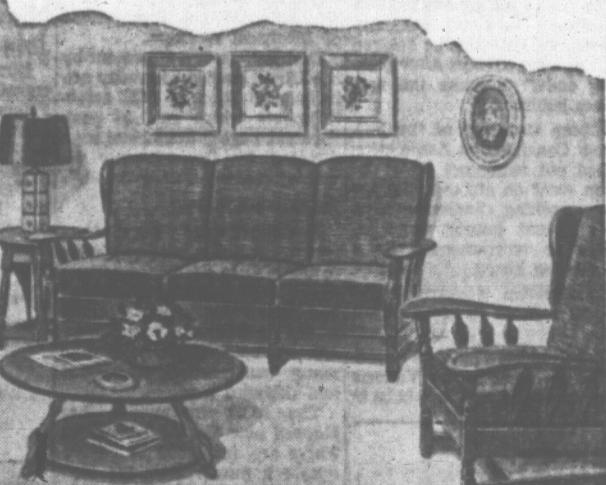

I couldn't help but write after reading your column in which a reader told of receiving a card, bearing the couple's name, in thanks for a wedding gift. I believe that this is an example of a practice frequently followed and I am surprised that neither of you seem familiar with it. I cannot vouch for the correctness of this procedure, but in large weddings many gifts are received, a card is often sent merely to let the sender know that the gift had been received. Then the thank you note follows.

Louise Davis Answers:

You are correct except for one important thing. When there are so many gifts that the bride is unable to write all of her thank you notes within a reasonable length of time, she (or her mother) immediately mails engraved acknowledgments worded something like this: "Miss Winifred Smith ac-

TODAY'S RECIPEORANGE TORTE

Two teaspoons grated orange rind, 1/2 cup orange juice, 1 1/2 cups once-sifted all-purpose flour, or 1 1/2 cups once-sifted pastry flour, 1/2 teaspoons baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon ground mace, 1/2 cup butter or margarine, 2 cups granulated sugar, 3 eggs, separated, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/2 cup milk, 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1/2 pint (1 1/4 cups) whipping cream, 2 tablespoons icing sugar, 1 tablespoon cointreau liqueur, optional.

Grease two 8-inch round layer cake pans and line neatly with sheets of foil, leaving a generous over-hang around the rims. Grease foil. Preheat oven to 325 degrees F. (rather slow). Prepare orange rind and orange juice. Sift the all-purpose or pastry flour, baking powder, and mace together twice.

Cream butter or margarine until soft; gradually blend in 1 cup of the granulated sugar. Add egg yolks, one at a time, beating in well after each addition. Add vanilla to orange juice. Add sifted dry ingredients to creamed mixture alternately with orange juice, then with milk, combining lightly after each addition. Pour batter into prepared cake pans. Sprinkle egg whites (at room temperature) with cream of tartar and beat until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in the remaining 1 cup granulated sugar. Fold in prepared orange rind. Spread meringue over batter in pans. Bake the cakes in preheated oven about 1 1/2 hours.

Stand cakes in their pans on cake racks until cold. Loosen around edges and lift out cakes; carefully peel off foil. Close to serving time, whip the cream until stiff; gradually beat in icing sugar and cointreau, if it is being used. Put the 2 cakes together with a filling and topping of the cream.

We suggest the torte be assembled just before guests are expected to arrive and stored in the refrigerator until serving time. Yield 10 to 12 servings.

Stratford-Hutchison Vows Solemnized at Langford

In a late afternoon wedding at Gordon's United Church, a two-tiered cake centred the bridal table at a reception at Langford, Miss. Jimaine Mary the home of the groom's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. James Hutchison of Ontario, became the bride of Brian John Stratford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stratford of Finlayson Arm Road, Goldstream.

Rev. H. P. Davidson united the couple.

A white illusion net over heavy satin created the gown worn by the bride. Fitted bodice and long torso extended to a bouffant skirt. A veil of net and lace misted from the bride's delicate pearl tiara. Her only jewelry was a pair of gold earrings, a gift of the groom, and a gold cross. She carried a bouquet of red roses, centred with a white orchid.

The bride was escorted up the aisle by her father.

Maid of honor, Miss Michelle Robert, wore a pink gown. She had a tiny tiara headpiece and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Miss Leona Fatheringham, bridesmaid, was in blue taffeta and also wore a jewelled tiara. She carried pink carnations in her bouquet. Pale yellow was born by junior bridesmaid Miss Jewel Hutchison. She had a bandeau of yellow roses and carried a colonial bouquet of pink freesia.

Best man was Peter Stratford and Lloyd Rauw ushered.

One Hundred Future Nurses Meet

Members of Victoria District Branch, Registered Nurses of British Columbia, acted as hostesses when 100 students from six future nurses' clubs in Victoria high schools gathered in St. Joseph's Hospital auditorium for a first general meeting. Students from Royal Oak, St. Margaret's and Mount Douglas schools were special guests.

Objective of the clubs, which are sponsored by teachers, is to acquaint high school girls with benefits of a nursing career. School nurses are consultants.

First president of the groups, Miss Helen English, was introduced, also Miss Rose Mary Tait, Mrs. K. M. Allan and Mrs. Jesse Bridges, founders of the first future nurses' club in Victoria.

Program included "How to Organize a Future Nurses' Club," presented by Mount View High School, under direction of Miss Frances Boden; explanation of the different phases of nursing by Miss Leona Moir, St. Ann's Club; work of public nurses by Victoria High School, directed by Miss Jean Barker;

Advice to Parents: Expose Child to Music But Never Force Him Into Taking Lessons

NEW YORK (UP)—Well I've finally discovered why so many children loathe practicing piano, violin or what-have-you in the music making world.

It isn't because they'd rather be out playing marbles or baseball. It's because mom and pop use the "have to" technique instead of letting them take music naturally.

Anyway, that's what a successful young producer of some leading concert programs for children has to say.

Roger Englander, the man behind the scenes in CBS Television's New York Philharmonic Youth Concert, says that "so many children are spoiled for music because their parents force them to take lessons before they are ready."

"The way to get junior to study music is to expose him to it, with someone else performing," said Englander between rehearsals for the next concert March 8. "Children are born listeners, rather than participants."

"Tune the child in," said Englander. "I don't care whether to Elvis Presley or Leonard Bernstein. But wait until he says, 'Please, may I study the guitar or piano,' or whatever, before forcing lessons on him."

Englander should know about children's musical tastes—although he has no youngsters of his own (he's 29, handsome and a bachelor).

He has just about cornered the children's market in music. He produces the philharmonic concerts, with Leonard Bernstein, its conductor doing the narration, and the Little Orchestra Society concerts, now in their 10th year. He also directs the award-winning children's show, "Let's Take a Trip."

"A children's audience is the toughest in the world," he said. "That's why we often have turn-downs from top talent."

A young man in a hurry, Englander has had little time for things other than work.

"But if any girls are tuned in," he said. "I figure I'd make a good husband. I have a nice apartment. I'm fairly successful, love kids and home cooking."

Englander, a native of Cleveland, O., first broke into television production when the medium was a freshman in the entertainment world and he was a freshman at the University of Chicago. He migrated, as the medium expanded, first to Philadelphia, then to New York.

"But anyway you add it up, kids and concerts are good company."

CCF Members Disagree Over Hoxsey Clinic

Two CCF members took opposite stands in the legislature Thursday night on the report of a six-man University of B.C. investigating team which found the Hoxsey cancer treatments to be "useless."

But it was not a party split. Both Randolph Harding (Kaslo-Slocan) who criticized the report and Tony Gargrave (MacKenzie) who supported it stressed that they were expressing personal, not party views.

Mr. Harding, who visited the Hoxsey clinic at Dallas, Texas, last spring, said he believed cancer is being cured there and declared the UBC team did not make a thorough study.

Mr. Gargrave held that the UBC team had done a good job at a reasonable cost "of only $12,000. He labelled Mr. Hoxsey as "a fraud who gives hope to cancer-ridden people in the same way that a confidence man puts hope in the breasts of his victims."

70 Convinced Hoxsey Cured Them

Mr. Harding criticized the report for "dismisthose who go to the Hoxsey Clinic are terminal (hopeless) cases when they go there and therefore could not be cured at home."

He said the reference to these cases as Hoxsey's "prize examples" was sarcastic. He had documents from doctors to back up his statements.

"I know of 10 or 12 British Columbians who have fantastic stories to tell—stories the members of this House should hear before passing judgment on this man."

He told of a man who was advised by regular doctors to have his leg taken off at the socket. He went to Hoxsey instead and today he could "walk as well as anyone in this room."

"I will admit," he added, "that I, too, have a doubt in my mind. But I would like some more investigating done before we condemn these treatments."

He said about 90 per cent of

'Let Hoxsey Get Medical Degree'

"Let him get a medical degree like other doctors if he wants to practice and make his suggestions in the clinics, hospitals and research laboratories."

"If you read his book 'You Don't Have to Die,' it will make you ill that this man should pretend to treat people for such a dread disease..."

Mr. Gargrave said a cancer quack is free to say he cures because there is a small percentage of natural recovery from cancer and he can take the credit for this.

Cancer was really a case of the cells "running wild" so that they no longer performed their natural function. Mr. Hoxsey claimed to be able to counteract this with some kind of chemical therapy in the blood.

"All he really gives his

Church Supports New Peace Move In Troubled Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—A "National Conciliation Committee" has been set up with the backing of the Roman Catholic Church to work for peace in Cuba.

The committee, made up of two former vice-presidents, a banker and a priest, said Thursday night in a statement that it plans to conduct "the necessary interviews with the government and with all the opposition groups to get their respective points of view."

Royal City Man Killed In Car Crash

(From CP Dispatches)

CLOVERDALE—One man was killed and another escaped uninjured when the car in which they were riding left King George Highway near here Thursday evening.

Dead on arrival at White Rock Hospital was Herman Kefr, about 60, of New Westminster. Taken to hospital but released soon afterward was Jack Rothweiler, 24, of Vancouver, who police said was driving the car.

It was the second fatal accident on the highway in three days, taking a total of three lives.

Police reported the car was proceeding north when it failed to negotiate a curve at the bottom of Woodward's Hill and rolled over in a ditch.

Thomas N. Horeschuck, 26, of Burnaby, and Hannah Hamill, 48, of Vancouver, died as a result of two-car collision in the same locality Monday.

SCHOOL PLEBISCITE

DAWSON CREEK—Ratepayers in school district '39 will be asked March 13 to approve expenditure of $420,000 for school construction projects at Dawson Creek, Pouce Coupe and Little Prairie.

An additional $60,000 already available through previous plebiscites.

School district officials hope all the projects can be completed this year.

OPERATION DELAYED

VANCOUVER—Operation for removal of a bronchial tumor has been delayed on a 10-year-old boy whose Sons of Freedom Doukhobor parents object to surgery.

The boy's official guardian Ruby McKay, child welfare superintendent, said Thursday the boy, receiving all recommended treatment and doctors say surgery is not imminent.

The boy was sent from the government school at New Denver to hospital here.

REHABILITATION CENTRE

VANCOUVER—A rehabilitation centre for cured drug addicts will be established here.

It will be a "pilot" scheme, first of its kind attempted in B.C., and will be operated by the Narcotics Addiction Foundation.

Dr. J. M. Mathé, president of the foundation, said Thursday the centre will be open to men and women who have stopped the use of narcotics as a result of treatment at established hospitals.

"I have faith in the UBC report," he said.

Mr. Martin said, in the light of the UBC report which had been made at the government's request, he did not think he should take part in any controversy over it.

CCF leader Robert Strachan pointed out that many medical men have relatives who are dying of cancer and it was unlikely they would neglect any possible means of curing them. Cover East) appeared to favor Mr. Harding's view that more study of the Hoxsey clinic was desirable.

Mrs. Lydia Arsenis, an early advocate of investigating the Hoxsey treatments when she sat in the house as Social Credit member for Victoria, heard the debate from the Speaker's Gallery.

RESENTS QUESTION ABOUT SISTER

'I Don't Know if You've Got A Father' Randolph Challenges

NEW YORK (UP)—Sir Winston Churchill's son Randolph lambasted an interviewer Thursday night in a televised tirade sprinkled with "hells" and one shocking British "bloody."

Churchill, who has just completed a lecture tour in this country, was touched off when station WABC's "Night Beat" interviewer John Wingate asked if he thought the American press had been fair in its "extensive and at times buoyant" coverage of "the unfortunate incident involving the arrest of your sister, Sarah, in California."

The Dumont station said that by two hours after the close of the 11 p.m. show it had received 571 telephone calls from listeners. It said slightly more than a third of them thought Wingate's question had been out of line. The rest, the station said, objected to Churchill's language and suggested he "go back to England."

Churchill started at a slow boil and sputtered for roughly 10 minutes with slight interruption.

"You pretend it's all unhearsed," he said. "You sent a hired hack to see me to discuss the topics you wished to discuss with me. This was not one of those he raised. I do not intend to discuss it with you . . ."

"You wished to spring it on me . . ."

"I never discuss matters relating to my family with total strangers such as yourself . . . you are a total stranger to me and I suppose the few hundred people looking in at the small television station which has not yet managed to get itself a network, that they are most of them strangers to me . . ."

Wingate said: "Let me say that you underestimate the audience."

"I wouldn't think of asking you about your sisters," Churchill fumed back.

"I was warned . . . they said don't you trust them. They'll

Roberts Beats Ailing Baldwin; 'Kid Rink' Wins

(See Sports Page for Thursday's Results)

By ERNIE FEDORUK

An ailing Matt Baldwin, defending Brier champion, suffered his second defeat this morning in Canadian curling championships at Memorial Arena, slipping into a three-way tie for first place with only one round left in the Tankard competition.

Murray Roberts of Ontario, building up an early lead and then giving the Alberta representatives nothing to shoot at, defeated Baldwin 10-6.

At the same time, 18-year-old Terry Braunstein of Winnipeg sparked his foursome to a 10-7 triumph over Nova Scotia to give the Manitoba rink a share of the lead.

After 10 rounds, Ontario, Alberta and Manitoba each have won seven games and lost two.

SIM CHANCE

Results of this morning's draw even gave British Columbia, skipped by Victoria's Tony Gutoski, a slim hope of getting into a playoff for the coveted trophy.

B.C.'s representatives, who improved their record to six wins and three losses with today's 10-7 win over Quebec, could also squeeze into the playoff picture only if Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario lost their afternoon games.

It's almost a dead certainty that a playoff will be held in Memorial Arena tonight. The playoff pattern will not be known until this afternoon's five games are complete.

LEFT ICE

Baldwin, 31-year-old petroleum engineer, suffered from a touch of the flu this morning and it seemed to affect his play.

The brilliant shotmaker with the picture delivery had to leave the ice on two occasions because of his illness.

Throughout the game against the surprising Ontario quartet, he sat down at the end of

LEADERS CONFIDENT

'Sons of Freedom' Emigration Nearer

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Leaders of British Columbia's fanatic Sons of Freedom Doukhobors sect are confident that the group's plan to migrate en masse to Russia will soon materialize.

In his first statement since returning with a four-man delegation from discussions with the Soviet government, Freedoms Secretary Bill Mojelsky said Thursday he was sure "Russia will give the Doukhobors the dignity of human beings and the right to live as a family unit."

He said the Sons of Freedom have made an informal application to the Soviet government for land in the Altai region of southwestern Siberia.

There have been reports of a split in the ranks of Freedoms ites with some, under the leadership of John Lebedoff, opposing the move to Russia. Lebedoff first proposed the move as chairman of the sect's fraternal council in 1949.

Mojelsky did not discuss the split but said a meeting of the 52-member council will be held in secret Saturday to avoid "interference by the authorities and Lebedoff."

The council and the delegation will report Sunday to a mass meeting of Doukhobors at Krestova, an isolated town which has for years been the Freedoms capital.

Mojelsky said his delegation has received assurances that the Soviet government will grant both the military exemption and religious freedom sought by the sect.

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain revealed today that she is developing a new nuclear guided weapon which will be offered to the North Atlantic Treaty organization.

The new weapon is designed to replace heavy-calibre artillery.

CURLING PLAYOFF DETAILS

Trustees of the Brier Tankard, emblematic of Canadian curling supremacy, today announced playoff arrangements should a tie for first place occur at the end of the regulation 11 rounds.

In case of a two-way tie, a sudden-death playoff will be held at 8 p.m. If there is a three-way tie, one team will receive a bye and the two other rinks will play off at 7 p.m. The deciding game would follow the first game at approximately 2½ hours later.

the rink while waiting for his opponents to shoot.

Roberts was never behind after opening with a two-ender. It was 4-1 for Ontario after four ends and 6-2 after six.

Ontario sewed up victory by scoring successive two-enders on the ninth and tenth.

BOOMING GAME

The Ontario rink, with few exceptions, curled magnificently. They boomed over everything in sight and never gave Alberta, hoping to win the national crown for a second consecutive year, a chance to build up a big end.

Baldwin was unable to capitalize on the few errors.

Other members of the Ontario rink are third Andy Grant, a Brier veteran, second Ray Grant, Andy Grant and skip Murray Roberts. Ontario pulled

Flier Lighted Match That Started Fire

CLINTON, Ont. (CP)—An 18-year-old airman, in a written statement submitted as evidence today at his court martial, told of touching a lighted match to a pile of paper and watching the beginning of a fire that gutted a Clinton RCAF barracks block Feb. 3.

AC2 George A. Morrice of Medicine Hat, Alta., said in the statement that he came across a box containing one match in a washroom while making his rounds on early-morning fire picket.

He said he stooped to light the match and in rising hit his head against a wash basin.

"I threw the match on a pile of papers and watched them burn," he said. "Then I took a piece of burning paper into a boiler room and threw it on a wooden shelf."

The young airman said he then went back to the station's fire hall and was there when the alarm went.

Firing Postponed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The U.S. Navy postponed today's scheduled daylight firing of its satellite carrying Vanguard rocket.

King Saud Denies Anti-Nasser Plot

CAIRO (UP)—King Saud's royal cabinet today formally denied Syrian-Egyptian charges that the King organized a plot to sabotage President Nasser's United Arab Republic.

A cabinet communique said the Saudi government had no knowledge whatsoever of the alleged plot which Nasser disclosed in his speech announcing the interim constitution of the new republic.

The communique, released by the Saudi Arabian Embassy in Cairo, said King Saud had ordered formation of a commission to investigate the charges.

The government believes that the matter has one of two

'THE DAY CHRIST DIED' IN SATURDAY'S TIMES

"The Day Christ Died," a special feature for the Lenten period, will begin in The Times Saturday, continuing daily until Good Friday.

This is a condensation of the famous book by Jim Bishop and tells the story of the most important day in Christian history in a completely new way. He reports the events as if they were happening today and in the style of a news report as it might have appeared. It has been acclaimed one of the greatest books on the Crucifixion. Start reading it Saturday in The Times.

At the same time Bulganin pointed out that Russia is prepared to discuss, including a prohibition of the use of cosmic space for military purposes.

REFERS TO ROCKET BASES

Bulganin's letter, replying to a letter from Eisenhower Feb. 15, appealed to the West to stop preparations for rocket bases in Britain and Western Europe pending a summit meeting.

The letter reaffirmed that Russia is not prepared to discuss at the summit talks the political situation of Eastern European countries or German reunification.

Bulganin said he considers the exchange of opinion between him and Eisenhower concerning a summit conference has been of "positive significance" and has played a definite role in preparations for the talks.

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower received today the translation of Premier Bulganin's latest note urging an East-West summit meeting. He apparently found it disappointing. U.S. officials who analyzed the letter declared there was nothing new in it.

Two rivers, Wis. (AP)—A Manitowoc. They returned at 2:20 a.m. pulling on their gloves, looked up and—no train.

The freight pulled out of the switching yards on a spur track, picking up speed as it moved through Manitowoc and on into Two Rivers.

The errant freight passed many grade crossings including a heavily-travelled highway. The diesel and two of the cars—two of which slammed down on top of the engine as it hit the bottom of the harbor—crashed through an iron gate at coal company yards and dived into Lake Michigan.

Gray Brothers Committed To Trial in Sommers Case

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two more of eight accused in a conspiracy case involving former forests minister Robert Sommers were committed today to stand trial on charges which the Crown says involve bribery of the former minister.

Magistrate Oscar Orr formally committed Robert Sommers, 47-year-old Social Credit MLA for Rossland Trail, who quit his lands and forests portfolio in 1956 when a police investigation of the case began. Committed with Sommers Tuesday was the C. D. Schultz Company Limited.

Hearing of defence in the case of the eighth accused, B.C. Forest Products Limited, was adjourned until next Wednesday due to the absence of the company's chief counsel, Walter Owen.

All the accused have elected trial by judge and jury.

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

After of six weeks of listening to speeches, debates, quarrels and quibbles in the Legislature, you get a terrible yen to get up and go some place where nobody speaks but everybody does something.

How grand it would be to stand on a strip of new road and watch a bulldozer plowing through the mud . . . a crane lifting a ton of granite . . . a building going up or a bridge creeping out over a great waterway.

How wonderful to hear, instead of voices, the singing of the wind as it ruffles the furry tops of giant cedars, the thunder of a mighty river rushing and foaming through rocky canyons.

What a magical escape from words, words, words . . . No doubt Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, that much-travelled man, could add something to this, for he stated just recently that "the hardest part of my job is sitting in this House."

As it happened, Mr. Gagliardi was not in the House Thursday night — the ninth night sitting since the session opened — and I wondered, half enviously, if he were flying low over some new highway project or testing the curves somewhere.

We have to admit, of course, that under our democratic system, before new projects can be launched, they have to be worked out in a battle of words. And there were plenty of them all day Thursday.

Discussion of estimates for the ministry of education occupied most of the afternoon. Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo-Slocan), John Squire (CCF, Alberni) and Gordon Dowding (CCF, Burnaby), repeatedly prodded Education Minister Leslie Peterson for more detail on expenditures.

"He is like Reluctant Dragon," smiled Mr. Dowding.
"He rouses our curiosity but does not satisfy it."

Mr. Squire said Mr. Peterson was "a fine individual" but he should tell them more.

Government and Opposition members urged the minister to spend more on the provincial library and archives. Said Mr. Harding:

"There is no room in our archives for all the wonderful material that will form the history of this province."

Tony Gargrave (CCF-MacKenzie), a student at Victoria College, commended the efficiency of the library and said: "Sometimes it does my homework for me."

"Then that is where the money should come from," grinned Premier Bennett looking at Mr. Gargrave.

George Gregory (Liberal-Victoria) led off debate on the need for a dental faculty in B.C. to remedy the shortage of dentists. Mr. Harding, speaking of his home town of Silverton, said they had to travel 60 miles to Nelson and back for a half-hour appointment with a dentist.

"For a full dental overhaul you may have to make 20 such trips over a period of months. We need at least 40 new dentists a year to meet the needs of the province."

Alex Matthew, as committee chairman, exercises a firm practised hand in controlling debates on estimates, but could not quite head off an unparliamentary bouquet from CCF leader Bob Strachan.

"I treat the chair with respect," he told Mr. Matthew, "even if I do not respect members of the government opposite."

Amid cries of "Shame" and "withdraw," Mr. Strachan added:

"The government gets exactly what it deserves."

ARAB 'JOAN OF ARC'

Algerian Woman, 22 Awaits Guillotine

PARIS (Reuters)—A 22-year-old woman, called the "Arab Joan of Arc" by her friends, waited in her death cell in Algeria today hoping that President Rene Coty of France will grant her clemency.

Jamila Boughired, pretty, dark-eyed and with fierce political convictions, was sentenced nine months ago to die under the guillotine. She was convicted by a French military tribunal in Algiers of being involved in a bomb-throwing mission carried out by Algerian rebels in an Algiers cafe.

Jamila denied taking part in the bombing raid, but reaffirmed her faith in the rebel cause during her trial.

No woman has been executed by France for rebel activities, but four women besides Jamila are under a death sentence. No dates have been set for these executions. The French have executed 127 rebel men and another 201 are under sentence to die.

Appeals for clemency for Jamila have come from many parts of the world and from many French citizens. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations and Soviet Premier Bulganin are among those who have asked that her life be spared.

Bomb Ban Battle Launched in U.K.

LONDON (Reuters)—The Labor Party, confident of powerful trade union backing has launched a campaign for suspension of British hydrogen bomb tests and a world pact outlawing all nuclear weapons.

A mandate for the campaign by the Socialists was secured Thursday at a conference with representatives of the 8,000,000-strong Trades Union Congress.

The conference produced a joint statement reaffirming official Labor party policy on nuclear weapons, and made no concessions to a new left-wing splinter group within the party.

ASK TOTAL SUM

The new group, calling itself "Victory for Socialism," demands closer adherence to basic Socialist principles and calls on Britain to ban the manufacture as well as the testing of nuclear weapons.

The Communist party secretary's statement was in a letter to the monthly Soviet magazine, International Life, replying to a letter from the Twickenham, England, council proposing abolition of nuclear weapons.

If the British government permits use of its territory for rocket weapons aimed at the Soviet Union, at its peaceful population, this would be tantamount to plans for a war of extermination," Khrushchev said.

"In that case the Soviet Union will have to take preventative measures. We shall also be compelled to establish bases for rockets with atomic and nuclear warheads so as not to be caught unaware."

'Buy British in Free Mart'

If the Progressive Conservative government remains in office "you are going to pay more for British goods, particularly textiles and automobiles." Liberal candidate Geoffrey Ellis said Thursday.

Addressing 27 Oak Bay residents in Monterey School, he said main aim of the Liberal party would be to seek the means of increasing the Canadian trade volume.

He advocated buying more British goods "in a free market."

Liberal Leader Lester Pearson, he pointed out, had undertaken to reopen negotiations with the British on their free trade offer.

$40,000 LIBEL FOR EX-MAYOR APPROVED

TORONTO (CP)—The private bills committee of the Ontario Legislature, Thursday voted 14-11 in favor of empowering Toronto City Council to pay $40,000 in damages and costs assessed against former Mayor Allan Lamport in a libel action.

Damages of $25,000 and costs of about $15,000 were assessed against Mr. Lamport in a libel action brought against him in 1954 by Toronto taxicab operator Thomas Ross. Mr. Lamport at the time was mayor and the action arose from remarks he made concerning issuing of taxi licences.

City council had voted 14-11 to ask for the legislation.

Like Anybody Else, Matt Runs Into a Few Snags

Crowd Figure Over 26,000; Three-Way Playoff Possible

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Matt Baldwin, a man dedicated to a cause, was feeling a trifle apprehensive today as play in the Canadian curling championships reached the final rounds.

The 31-year-old Edmonton skip isn't a great worrier, but there was cause for concern in the Alberta camp as the rink, hoping to give Matt his third Canadian championship, moved against Ontario's Murray Roberts in an all-important meeting this morning.

It's Matt's belief that the Edmonton rink, and Mr. Baldwin, has yet to hit peak form. It's news of this sort that does not exactly cheer up rival skips.

Baldwin slipped once Thursday day and, despite the fact he bounced back with two impressive victories, his 10-8 upset at the hands of Saskatchewan placed today's burden on Ontario.

If Roberts can manage to defeat Baldwin, then the possibility of a three-way playoff looms between Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario. If, however, Baldwin beats the Ontario rink, then it's all over but the shouting.

Baldwin was to face Noya Scotia on this afternoon's draw—the final one in the tournament. And nobody expects Noya Scotia, with only two victories to their credit in their first eight starts, to beat Baldwin, even on one of his poorest days.

Manitoba's teenagers bounced into contention and changed the entire complexion of the race for the Brier Tankard by defeating Ontario 13-7 on Thursday's late draw. Thus Alberta ended the day's play with a 7-1 record, while Ontario and Manitoba each showed 6-2 marks.

It's Matt's belief that the Edmonton rink, and Mr. Baldwin, has yet to hit peak form. It's news of this sort that does not exactly cheer up rival skips.

Baldwin slipped once Thursday day and, despite the fact he bounced back with two impressive victories, his 10-8 upset at the hands of Saskatchewan placed today's burden on Ontario.

If Roberts can manage to defeat Baldwin, then the possibility of a three-way playoff

Winnipeg Youngsters Bounce Back

But while Manitoba, skipped by 18-year-old Terry Braunstein of Winnipeg, surged into the picture, the big game was the Baldwin-Roberts clash.

British Columbia moved into the final day with a 5-3 record and only a slim, mathematical chance of winning the coveted Tankard. They were dormed—two down with two to go—after two impressive victories Thursday. Skipped by veteran Tony Gutoski of Victoria, B.C. thumped

Northern Ontario 13-9 and Saskatchewan 14-6.

The "ifs" and "buts" that were being used in connection with today's windup were many.

One thing was certain, however, and that was the fact that Victoria's first chance to play host to the classic is going to be a success.

The largest crowd ever to watch a single curling draw in B.C.—4,039 paid—turned out to Memorial Arena Thursday evening, raising the week-long count to 26,500. Approximately 2,400 tickets have been sold in advance of today's two draws, thus assuring total ticket sales of $31,000 for the 11 draws.

Additional sales today is almost certain to push the total past $32,000, second only to the record 51,725 set at Regina in 1955. Last year, only 14,000 paid to see the games in Kingston.

Until today, Edmonton's 1954 figure of 32,000 has been second best.

Heaneys to Meet Wests Saturday In Soccer Replay

No decision was reached last weekend in the Division III championship of the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association and Victoria West will meet Heaneys, Saturday, in a replay of the match.

Teams played to a 2-2 draw and go at it again at Carnarvon Park, starting at 1:30 p.m.

A second Lower Island championship will be at stake Saturday when Division IV Optimists and Hampton Eagles clash at Bullen Park at 10:30 a.m.

All other Saturday games will be regular league matches, with only Division II Eagles and Texacos scheduled to play Sunday, at Windsor Park, starting at 1:30 p.m.

Who Plays Whom Only Puzzle Now

The regular National Hockey League season still has 17 days to go, but the only question left to solve today was what will be the lineup for the opening round of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The Boston Bruins came from behind to gain a 4-4 tie with the last-place Chicago Black Hawks Thursday night and move into a third-place tie with the Detroit Red Wings.

Montreal Canadiens already have clinched the regular-season pennant and the second-place New York Rangers, six points up on the Red Wings and Bruins, just about have that spot sewn up. With the fifth-place Toronto Maple Leafs seven points off the pace, it seems almost certain that Montreal, New York, Detroit and Boston will compete in the playoffs.

Bruins have eight games left to play to the Red Wings' nine.

Playing without goalie Harry Lumley and down 4-2 after the first minute of the final period, Boston made a fine comeback which Jerry Toppazzini completed at 11:57.

Toppazzini golled at the puck in a mad scramble and the puck rolled over the body of fallen goalie Glenn Hall into the net.

Buddy Boone had pulled Boston to 4-3 at 4:37 of the final period when he converted a Larry Regan pass from directly in front.

Lumley, the regular Boston goalie since mid-January, was out with a foot infection and Courtenay, on the other hand, will be sporting three players from Cumberland's 1957 Island champions.

Bill Mossey, Mike Potkanac and Danny Bulatovich are all taking their senior matriculation in Courtenay High School and will line up with the team on opening day.

Other teams in the tourney are Cowichan Thunderbirds, Alberni Chieftains and Ladysmith Hill Toppers.

Three, and possibly four, teams will represent the Island at the provincial playdowns March 12 through 15 at UBC's Memorial gym.

Vikings, Tiremen Have Hoop Hammers Poised

The Vancouver Island high school basketball battle of the year started today in Cumberland, when eight district championship teams began firing in annual Island tournament.

Among the teams to beat in the tourney are Victoria High Totems and Courtney Towhees.

After a slow start, Vic High boomed through to capture the Lower Island title two weeks ago at Esquimalt High gym when they beat out hosting Dockers and Belmont sneaked through to the third Lower Island spot.

Courtenay, on the other hand, will be sporting three players from Cumberland's 1957 Island champions.

Bill Mossey, Mike Potkanac and Danny Bulatovich are all taking their senior matriculation in Courtenay High School and will line up with the team on opening day.

These three dark horses give Towhees the advantage both in experience and proven merit.

Bulatovich was chosen for the second all-star team in Vancouver last season while Potkanac made it on to the first all-star team.

COLLING BACK

Most valuable player in last year's Island tournament, Bob Colling, will be out with Courtney Towhees.

Tiremen will be travelling a lot lighter when they leave for Alberni Saturday, having only only seven points in hand against the powerful Athletic B's. The opening senior "B" class game went to a 74-67 decision for the Double Ds.

Vikings will carry a whopping 35-point bulge with them when they move to Nanaimo tonight in the final tussle of a two-game, total-point games for the junior crown. They defeated Nanaimo 80-45 last weekend in Victoria.

MONTE ROBERTS

We said au revoir to Rear-Admiral Ken Adams yesterday.

Ken is leaving the navy on reaching retirement age in April, and the au revoir was more to his navy career than to Ken himself.

He'll be back. He has a civilian job lined up, a public relations job with the Westinghouse people. And when he eventually retires from THAT job, he is coming to Victoria to retire.

Being an Adams, this makes sense. The first Adams to arrive in B.C. was Ken's great-grandfather, John B. Adams, who was born in New Brunswick to Empire Loyalist parents, came to B.C. in the 1860's.

Ken's grandfather was one of the big men in the lamented sealing industry here in the 80's and 90's, and was a partner in a ship chandling company.

Thus Ken's father was brought up on the waterfront, went on sealing voyages when he was in knee pants, later became an enthusiastic and expert yachtsman.

So it's not surprising that young Adams decided on a seagoing career, and it's only logical he'll come back here to wind up his life, which has been a very full one, indeed.

While we were saying au revoir—very pleasantly, in the HMCS Malahat wardroom—Ken recalled a column in this space which revealed the fact that this distinguished admiral was, from time to time, told off by his wife to scrub the kitchen floor.

The idea of an admiral swabbing the deck under the watchful eye of his superior officer, namely his wife, apparently caught the imagination of his naval colleagues, and he took a rather extensive ribbing, for which he didn't thank me at all!

But Ken now reports he has this problem licked, and I would like to pass on his solution for the benefit of other husbands.

Ken suddenly remembered an old football injury which caused trouble in his back.

With the co-operation of a friendly surgeon-commander, the admiral was able to produce proof he was unfit for kitchen floor duty.

The disease from which he is suffering?

Afflitis.

With which thought we say farewell, Admiral Adams.

May your future be electrifying.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Condition of two brothers involved in a traffic accident near Parson's Bridge Feb. 27 had improved to "good" today at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Archie McWhirter, 28, 1464 Begbie, and Hugh McWhirter, 35, 844 Esquimalt, sustained head and face injuries when their truck was in collision with another truck driven by B. G. Patrick Colcough, 46, Glen Lake Road. Colcough has been released from hospital. He received a fractured arm and broken ribs.

Heavy damage resulted from a basement fire at the home of H. A. Winterburn, 2641 Graham, shortly after 2 a.m. today. City fire department is investigating cause of the fire.

Archie De Bots and Gordon Sillars were fined $25 each in city police court today for causing a public disturbance in the 600 block Johnson Street Thursday night. They pleaded guilty to the charge. Court was told the accused had been punching and kicking each other, and had continued to fight in the police patrol car after being picked up.

A panel discussion on a new book entitled, "Prescriptions for Survival," by Dr. Brock Chisholm, will be held at a meeting of the Victoria Humanitarian Fellowship Group at Woodsworth Hall, 721 Courtney, at 8 p.m. Sunday.

A four-car collision was touched off when Mrs. Doris Wickett, 216 Superior, stopped on Bay Street at Fifth, Thursday afternoon, to avoid hitting a dog. Other cars, travelling behind the Wickett car, involved in the collision were driven by Miss S. O'Reilly, 3875 Cedar Hill; George Thomas, 2327 Kilgary, and Thomas D. W. McCulloch, 1769 Bay.

They were Samuel J. Patterson, 1503 Charlton, and Ernest Criss Day, 663 McKenzie, who faced two charges and paid $25 fine on each.

Writer-traveller Pierre de Bois Deffre will address the L'Alliance Francaise March 11 at 8 p.m. in the Ewing Building, Victoria College, on the life of Albert Camus, French dramatist and essayist.

Subject of his address will be "A Saint Without God."

M. Deffre's specialty is 20th century French authors.

Members of the Junior Branch of the Victoria Natural History Association will meet Saturday, 1:30 p.m., in the Monterey Restaurant parking lot for a meeting at the Lohbrunner Nurseries, off Blenkinsop Road.

Antigonish left today, returns 4:30 p.m. Sunday. Oshawa leaves Monday on PNL cruise, returns April 13. Sussexvale, New Waterford, Beacon Hill, St. Therese leave 8:30 a.m. Monday, return 3:30 p.m. March 28.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Ontario en route to Australia and New Zealand, returns May 5.

Crescent, Cayuga, Skeena, Fraser, Margaree on Far East cruise, return April 2.

Antigonish left today, returns 4:30 p.m. Sunday. Oshawa leaves Monday on PNL cruise, returns April 13.

Sussexvale, New Waterford, Beacon Hill, St. Therese leave 8:30 a.m. Monday, return 3:30 p.m. March 28.

Two men each were fined $25 and $2.50 costs in Saanich police court Thursday, when they pleaded guilty to charges of failing to submit 1956 income tax returns.

Talks will be held next week between Memorial Arena building committee and officials of St. John Ambulance Brigade.

The brigade last week complained at inadequate first aid facilities in the arena.

Improved accommodations had been refused despite the fact it was impossible to carry a stretcher into the present first aid room, the complaint stated.

A fall from a moving car sent Mrs. Margaret Winslow, 70, 1044 Craigdarroch, to Royal Jubilee Hospital Thursday afternoon with lacerations to ankle and hand.

She is in good condition to day.

Mrs. Winslow had been backing from the driveway of her home when she fell out of her car. The car rolled across the street and struck a stone wall in front of 1037 Craigdarroch. Damage was slight to the wall; moderate to the car.

Sudbury, Tow Heading Home

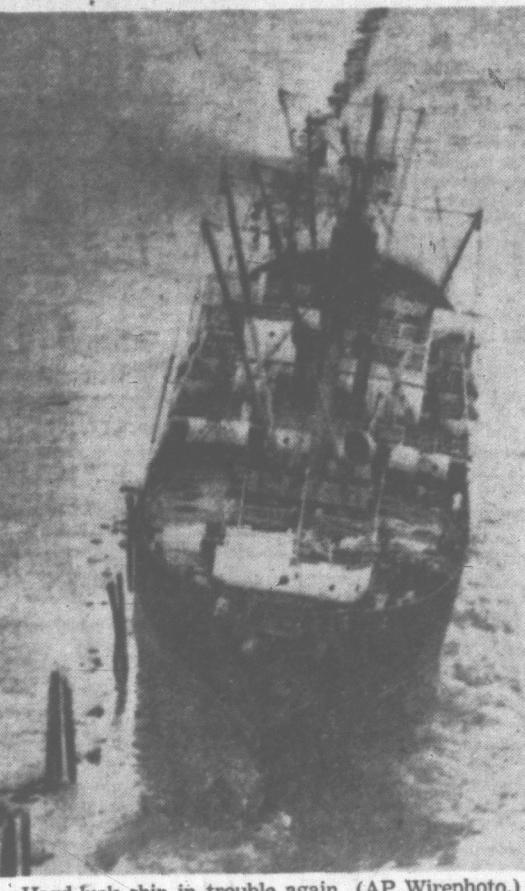

The Victoria-based deep-sea salvage tug Ss. Sudbury has taken the propellerless freighter Andros Legend in tow, and is heading toward Cape Flattery.

In a brief wireless message to the owners, Island Tug & Barge Ltd., Capt. Harley Blagbourne today reported:

"Have Andros Legend in tow. Point of contact 41 deg. 35 min. North, 166 deg. 47 min. West at 2015 (8:15 p.m., Pacific Standard Time.)

No mention was made of weather conditions, so they are presumed favorable.

Tug and tow are nearly 2,000 miles west of Vancouver Island. It is expected to take about two weeks to cover the distance.

SIGNS OF INFLATED TIMES: SMALL DEBTS GETTING BIGGER

Members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce want the provincial government to amend the Small Debts Act so that accounts up to $250 may be brought within the jurisdiction of the Small Debts Court. Arnold Webb, secretary-manager, said today.

At present the Small Debts Court can only deal with debts up to $100.

The directors of the Chamber, Mr. Webb said, will be asked to approve a resolution requesting an amendment to the Act.

65 TONS

Designed to contain butane, the tank is designed to accommodate 150 pounds pressure per square inch. The propane tanks, of which 11 will be built, will weigh 65 tons each and will be designed for a pressure of 225 pounds. All 18 will be the same size and shape.

According to T. A. Kennedy, company sales manager, the tank will make the trip on two railroad cars.

"In one tunnel in the Rockies, clearance will be only three inches," he said. "We had to consult with the railroad about limitations even before we bid on the tanks."

Value of the 18-tank contract, won in competitive bidding against Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg firms, is "close to $500,000," Mr. Kennedy said.

PROUD

"We are proud of the fact that we won the contract even though our wages are 30 cents an hour above those in Alberta, and slightly higher than Vancouver," he said. "On top of that, we had to absorb freight costs of $40,000. It means simply that we will produce faster and better than the others."

The contract was awarded a month ago, and an assembly line system established. Starting with this first tank, they will be leaving the company's Bay Street plant at the rate of one a week.

Route of the big load was via Bay, Douglas, Johnson and Esquimalt Road to the government drydock, where it was loaded from a truck to E&N railroad cars. It will be hauled by slow train during daylight hours only.

WINNER

of a $300 Hudson's Bay Co. scholarship this year is J. Tom English, 19-year-old sophomore at Victoria College. The announcement was made jointly today by the college and the HBC. The award, made on the basis of academic standing, ability, personality and interest in a merchandising career, also carries a guarantee of summer employment at the department store. English, captain of the college Vikings basketball team and president of men's athletics, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. English, 3111 Rutledge. He earned a first-class average at college last year. — (Times photo).

Victoria May Save Face For Toronto

If Sir Winston Churchill will come to Victoria, Mayor Percy Scurr will extend a courtesy to the Prime Minister of Britain a freeman of the city.

BCE Tactics Under Fire By Strikers

The B.C. Electric today was charged with "a concerted effort to break down trade union conditions," as the strike of 175 electrical workers here of the BCE and its contracting firm, Hume & Rumble, entered its fifth day.

The charge was made by Jack Driscoll, business agent of Local 230, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Distribution of a statement by the IBEW started Thursday afternoon in front of BCE establishments and said in part, "present negotiations have been directed by the company to wards breaking up our union."

DANGEROUS JOB

It claimed that "every effort is made by the union, right up to the last, to keep negotiations going and to avert a strike, and that "the linemen, about

Policeman Hurt, Man Held in Holdup

MONTREAL (CP)—A lone gunman wounded a police detective who stumbled on a bank holdup attempt today. The gunman fled with $2,300 but police said he was captured a block away.

The wounded man was identified as Detective Sgt. Leo Boisjoly of the Montreal homicide squad.

The holdup took place at a branch of La Banque Canadienne Nationale in the city's northeastern side.

36 Algerian Rebels Condemned

PHILIPPEVILLE, Algeria (AP)—A French jury Thursday night convicted and sentenced to death 36 Nationalist rebels accused of massacring a score of Europeans near here about 2½ years ago. Fifteen of those sentenced to death were in court. The remainder were tried and convicted in absentia.

Canada Sells Wheat to Red China

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal trade department officials today confirmed Winnipeg reports that Canada has made its first wheat sale to Red China. This country has sold the Communist country one cargo of wheat, roughly 10,000 tons, in a straight cash deal. Shipment of the grain is expected to be made from the west coast this month.

Federal Loan for Trail Housing Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal government loan of $82,000 for a low-rental housing project for elderly persons, in Trail, B.C., was announced today.

The project includes 10 single units at a rent of $30 a month and 11 double units at a rent of $45. The loan, bearing 4½ per cent interest, is repayable in 40 years, and is being made to the Trail and District Senior, Citizens Villa Society, sponsored by a service club.

Full Scale Probe of FCC Ordered

WASHINGTON (UP)—A U.S. Justice Department spokesman said today a federal grand jury soon will investigate "a new facet of the Federal Communications Commission situation." The jury is now concentrating on the financial dealings between resigned FCC Commissioner Richard A. Mack and Miami attorney Thurman A. Whiteside.

Bulganin Blasts U.S. on Summit

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Premier Bulganin tonight accused the United States of "procrastination" tactics in relation to a summit conference.

In a new letter to President Eisenhower published tonight Bulganin complained that the U.S. is continuing to propose "obviously unacceptable" questions for the agenda of a summit conference.

At the same time Bulganin listed points Russia is prepared to discuss, including a prohibition of the use of cosmic space for military purposes.

This point—first suggested by the West—was linked in the letter with the abolition of military bases on foreign territory, but the link is not elaborated.

Bulganin's letter, replying to a letter from Eisenhower Feb. 15, appealed to the West to stop preparations for rocket nothing new in it.

LEADERS CONFIDENT

'Sons of Freedom' Emigration Nearer

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Leaders of British Columbia's fanatical Sons of Freedom Doukhobors sect are confident that the group's plan to migrate en masse to Russia will soon materialize.

In his first statement since returning with a four-man delegation from discussions with the Soviet government, Freedomsite Secretary Bill Moogelsky said Thursday he was sure "Russia will give the Doukhobors the dignity of human beings and the right to live as a family unit."

He said the Sons of Freedom have made an informal application to the Soviet government for land in the Altai region of southwestern Siberia.

There have been reports of a split in the ranks of Freedomsite with some, under the leadership of John Lebedoff, opposing the move to Russia. Lebedoff first proposed the move as chairman of the sect's fraternal council in 1949.

Moogelsky did not discuss the split but said a meeting of the 52-member council will be held in secret Saturday to avoid "interference by the authorities and Lebedoff."

The council and the delegation will report Sunday to a mass meeting of Doukhobors at Krestova, an isolated town which has for years been the Freedomsite capital.

Moogelsky said his delegation has received assurances that the Soviet government will grant both the military exemption and religious freedom sought by the sect.

ONTARIO'S UPSET SPECIALISTS

Forcing triple tie in Canadian curling championships at Memorial Arena this morning was this Ontario rink, left to right, George Rumney, Ray Grant, Andy Grant and skip Murray Roberts. Ontario pulled even with Matt Baldwin by handing Alberta skip 10-6 defeat. Also sharing lead is Terry Brauenstein's youthful Manitoba foursome, which clipped Nova Scotia 10-7. (See story).—(Times Photo by Halkett.)

'THE DAY CHRIST DIED' IN SATURDAY'S TIMES

"The Day Christ Died," a special feature for the Lenten period, will begin in The Times Saturday, continuing daily until Good Friday.

This is a condensation of the famous book by Jim Bishop and tells the story of the most important day in Christian history in a completely new way. He reports the events as if they were happening today and in the style of a news report as it might have appeared. It has been acclaimed one of the greatest books on the Crucifixion. Start reading it Saturday in The Times.

TRAIN TRAPPED

Slide Isolates Prince Rupert

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mud and rocks sweeping down a mountainside trapped a CNR work train early today 17 miles east of Prince Rupert on the shores of Skeena River Inlet.

Coming after hours of gale-driven rain and snow, the slide derailed two diesel units and five log-filled cars of the train, but four work crews escaped injury. It was not known here how many

Telegraph and telephone wires were left a tangled mass, cutting all communications with Prince Rupert, 500 miles north of here, except via wireless.

The slide rolled down the mountain at 3 a.m. with tons of rock and mud pouring over the tracks and a 35-foot high pile of rubble was reported moving slowly into the inlet.

One report received via the Point Grey wireless station here said one of the diesel units was in danger of being pushed into the water as the slide brought trees, mud and huge rocks into its path.

Heavy snow hampered the work of crews trying to get through to the slide area.

Late in November seven persons died in a slide on the outskirts of Prince Rupert when three homes at the foot of Mount Hayes were swept into a creek. There was only one survivor, an 18-months-old girl.

200 FEET WIDE

The slide today was reported 200-feet wide, but after the first rush, the avalanche of mud and rock slowed.

Curling Playoff Tonight Looms

(See Sports Page for Thursday's Results)

By ERNIE FEDORUK

An ailing Matt Baldwin, defending Brier champion, suffered his second defeat this morning in Canadian curling championships at Memorial Arena, slipping into a three-way tie for first place with only one round left in the Tankard competition.

Murray Roberts of Ontario, building up an early lead and then giving the Alberta representatives nothing to shoot at, defeated Baldwin 10-6.

At the same time, 18-year-old Terry Brauenstein of Winnipeg sparked his foursome to a 10-7 triumph over Nova Scotia to give the Manitoba rink a share of the lead.

After 10 rounds, Ontario, Alberta and Manitoba each have won seven games and lost two.

SLIM CHANCE

Results of this morning's draw even gave British Columbia, skipped by Victoria's Tony Gutoski, a slim hope of getting into a playoff for the coveted trophy.

B.C.'s representatives, who improved their record to six wins and three losses with today's 10-7 win over Quebec, could also squeeze into the playoff picture only if Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario lost their afternoon games.

It's almost a dead certainty that a playoff will be held in Memorial Arena tonight. The playoff pattern will not be known until this afternoon's five games are complete.

LEFT ICE

Baldwin, 31-year-old petroleum engineer, suffered from a touch of the flu this morning and it seemed to affect his play.

The brilliant shotmaker with the picture delivery had to leave the ice on two occasions because of his illness.

Throughout the game against the surprising Ontario quartet, he sat down at the end of the rink while waiting for his opponents to shoot.

Roberts was never behind after opening with a two-ender. It was 4-1 for Ontario after four ends and 6-2 after six.

Ontario sewed up victory by scoring successive two-enders on the ninth and tenth.

BOOMING GAME

The Ontario rink, with few exceptions, curled magnificently. They boomed out everything in sight and never gave Alberta, hoping to win the national crown for a second successive year, a chance to build up a big end.

PLAYOFF TIME DETAILS

Trustees of the Brier Tankard, emblematic of Canadian curling supremacy, today announced playoff arrangements should a tie for first place occur at the end of the regulation 11 rounds.

In case of a two-way tie, a sudden-death playoff will be held at 8 p.m. If there is a three-way tie, one team will receive a bye and the two other rinks will play off at 7 p.m. The deciding game would follow the first game at approximately 2½ hours later.

March Displays Aspect of Lion But Briefly

Lamb-like March today showed signs of putting on the lion skin, but the weather office here isn't over-pessimistic about the future.

Rain flurries mixed with some snow were reported from widely separated sections of Greater Victoria, including Glen Colwood, Langford, and Langford.

A few flakes fell this morning at the Gonzales weather office.

Outlook for tonight call for a sharp frost, with temperatures in the high 20's in sheltered areas at the end of the first period.

The performance of the Canadians against the Czechs was considered especially significant as a gauge of the Canucks' chances against their arch-rivals, the Russians, in the final game of the tournament Sunday.

Gosselin's hat-trick featured the Canadian scoring. Other winds were 30 miles per hour, and expected to drop to 15 today and Saturday.

Forecast calls for mixed cloud and sunshine, with occasional rain showers mixed with snow at the higher levels.

NORMAN
CRIBBENS
IN THE LEGISLATURE

After six weeks of listening to speeches, debates, quarrels and quibbles in the Legislature, you get a terrible yen to get up and go some place where nobody speaks but everybody does something.

How grand it would be to stand on a strip of new road and watch a bulldozer plowing through the mud . . . a crane lifting a ton of granite . . . a building going up or a bridge creeping out over a great waterfall.

How wonderful to hear, instead of voices, the singing of the wind as it ruffles the furry tops of giant cedars, the thunder of a mighty river rushing and foaming through rocky canyons.

What a magical escape from words, words, words . . .

No doubt Highways Minister F. A. Gagliardi, that much-travelled man, could add something to this, for he stated just recently that "the hardest part of my job is sitting in this House."

As it happened, Mr. Gagliardi was not in the House Thursday night—the ninth night sitting since the session opened—and I wondered, half enviously, if he were flying low over some new highway project or testing the curves somewhere.

We have to admit, of course, that under our democratic system, before new projects can be launched, they have to be worked out in a battle of words. And there were plenty of them all day Thursday.

Discussion of estimates for the ministry of education occupied most of the afternoon. Randolph Harding (CCF, Kaslo-Slocan), John Squire (CCF, Alberni) and Gordon Dowding (CCF, Burnaby), repeatedly prodded Education Minister Leslie Peterson for more detail on expenditures.

"He is like a Reluctant Dragon," smiled Mr. Dowding.
"He rouses our curiosity but does not satisfy it."

Mr. Squire said Mr. Peterson was "fine individual" but he should tell them more.

Government and Opposition members urged the minister to spend more on the provincial library and archives. Said Mr. Harding:

"There is no room in our archives for all the wonderful material that will form the history of this province."

Tony Gargrave (CCF-MacKenzie), a student at Victoria College, commended the efficiency of the library and said: "Sometimes it does my homework for me."

"Then that is where the money should come from," grinned Premier Bennett looking at Mr. Gargrave.

George Gregory (Liberal-Victoria) led off debate on the need for a dental faculty in B.C. to remedy the shortage of dentists. Mr. Harding, speaking of his home town of Silverton, said they had to travel 60 miles to Nelson and back for a half-hour appointment with a dentist.

"For a full dental overhaul you may have to make 20 such trips over a period of months. We need at least 40 new dentists a year to meet the needs of the province."

Alex Matthew, as committee chairman, exercises a firm practised hand in controlling debates on estimates, but could not quite head off an unparliamentary bouquet from CCF leader Bob Strachan.

"I treat the chair with respect," he told Mr. Matthew, "even if I do not respect members of the government opposite."

Amid cries of "Shame" and "withdraw," Mr. Strachan added:

"The government gets exactly what it deserves."

ARAB 'JOAN OF ARC'

Algerian Woman, 22
Awaits Guillotine

PARIS (Reuters)—A 22-year-old woman, called the "Arab Joan of Arc" by her friends, waited in her death cell in Algeria today hoping that President Rene Coty of France will grant her clemency.

Jamila Bouhired, pretty, dark-eyed and with fierce political convictions, was sentenced nine months ago to die under the guillotine. She was convicted by a French military tribunal in Algiers of being involved in a bomb-throwing mission carried out by Algerian rebels in an Algiers cafe.

Jamila denied taking part in the bombing raid, but reaffirmed her faith in the rebel cause during her trial.

No woman has been executed by France for rebel activities, but four women besides Jamila are under a death sentence. No dates have been set for these executions. The French have executed 127 rebel men and another 201 are under sentence to die.

Appeals for clemency for Jamila have come from many parts of the world and from many French citizens. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations and Soviet Premier Bulganin are among those who have asked that her life be spared.

Bomb Ban Battle Launched in U.K.

LONDON (Reuters)—The Labor Party, confident of powerful trade union backing, has launched a campaign for suspension of British hydrogen bomb tests and a world pact outlawing all nuclear weapons.

A mandate for the campaign by the Socialists was secured Thursday at a conference with representatives of the 8,000,000-strong Trades Union Congress.

The conference produced a joint statement reaffirming official Labor party policy on nuclear weapons, and made no concessions to a new left-wing splinter group within the party.

ASK TOTAL SUM

The new group, calling itself "Victory for Socialism," demands closer adherence to basic Socialist principles and calls on Britain to ban the manufacture as well as the testing of nuclear weapons.

But the party and union chiefs said production of the hydrogen weapon should continue during a "limited" ban on tests, during which Britain should press for a world disarmament pact outlawing all nuclear weapons.

"If the British government permits use of its territory for rocket weapons aimed at the Soviet Union, at its peaceful population, this would be tantamount to plans for a war of extermination," Khrushchev said.

In that case the Soviet Union will have to take preventative measures. We shall also be compelled to establish bases for rockets with atomic and nuclear warheads so as not to be caught unawares."

Simple Formula Predicted For Welfare

Opinions of local welfare authorities on Canadian public assistance programs are being sought here this week by the Canadian Welfare Council.

Executive secretary, public welfare division, Norman Cragg of Ottawa, is completing a nation-wide tour. He is meeting with provincial deputy welfare ministers, and local professional and volunteer welfare societies.

Mr. Cragg said he has noted a new attitude across Canada in welfare thinking.

In the past, welfare administration has been diverted through various channels—aid to pensioners, aid to the blind, aid to the unemployed. These and other groups have had to meet varying requirements and separate acts set down varying measures of assistance.

"Ultimately, welfare administration will be geared to provide for all according to need, with one simple formula in effect all across the nation," he believed.

The Canadian Welfare Council is a national clearing-house for various public assistance organizations. It is financed in part by Community Chests.

CCF Members Disagree Over Hoxsey Clinic

Two CCF members took opposite stands in the legislature Thursday night on the report of a six-man University of B.C. investigating team which found the Hoxsey cancer treatments to be "useless."

But it was not a party split. Both Randolph Harding (Kaslo-Slocan) who criticized the report and Tony Gargrave (MacKenzie) who supported it stressed that they were expressing personal, not party views.

Mr. Harding, who visited the Hoxsey clinic at Dallas, Texas, last spring, said he believed cancer is being cured there and declared the UBC team did not make a thorough study.

Mr. Gargrave held that the UBC team had done a good job at a reasonable cost" of only $12,000. He labelled Mr. Hoxsey as "a fraud who gives hope to cancer-ridden people in the same way that a confidence man puts hope in the breasts of his victims."

70 Convinced Hoxsey Cured Them

Mr. Harding criticized the report for "dismissing in 22 lines" the eight patients who were presented by Hoxsey in his defence.

He said the reference to these cases as Hoxsey's "prize examples" was sarcastic. He had documents from doctors to back up his statements.

"I know of 10 or 12 British Columbians who have fantastic stories to tell—stories the members of this House should hear before passing judgment on this man."

He told of a man who was advised by regular doctors to have his leg taken off at the socket. He went to Hoxsey stand-and-today he could "walk as well as anyone in this room."

"I will admit," he added, "that I have a doubt in my mind. But I would like some more investigating done before we condemn these treatments."

He said about 90 per cent of

Said Mr. Harding:

"The UBC report would have been more convincing if they had taken 50 or 60 cases and traced them right through and then backed their findings with documentary evidence."

He said he was not condemning either the B.C. medical profession or the UBC team. The medical profession was doing a good job on cancer treatment in B.C.

"When I urged the government to have the investigation made, I did so in the hope that we might find something good—find some value in this kind of treatment."

Mr. Harding said he talked to more than 70 people at the Dallas Clinic who were convinced Hoxsey had cured them.

He had contacted a "considerable number" of Hoxsey patients in the Vancouver area who had not been approached by the UBC team.

'Let Hoxsey Get Medical Degree'

"Let him get a medical degree like other doctors if he wants to practice and make his suggestions in the clinics, hospitals and research laboratories."

"If you read his book 'You Don't Have to Die,' it will make you ill that this man should pretend to treat people for such a dread disease."

Mr. Gargrave said a cancer quack is free to say he cures because there is a small percentage of natural recovery from cancer and he can take the credit for this.

Cancer was really a case of the cells "running wild" so that they no longer performed their natural function. Mr. Hoxsey claimed to be able to counteract this with some kind of chemical therapy in the blood.

"All he really gives his

Church Supports New Peace Move In Troubled Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—A "National Conciliation Committee" has been set up with the backing of the Roman Catholic Church to work for peace in Cuba.

The committee, made up of two former vice-presidents, a banker and a priest, said Thursday night in a statement that it plans to conduct "the necessary interviews with the government and with all the opposition groups to get their respective points of view."

Baldwin was unable to capitalize on the few errors.
Other members of the Ontario rink are third Andy Grant, a Brier veteran, second Ray Grant and lead George Rumney.

Manitoba, the youngest in the Brier, had a tight squeeze to get by Nova Scotia's Don Bauld, whose rink has an average age of 47.5, the oldest in the curling classic.

Manitoba, like Ontario, got away to a fast start and two ends on the ninth and 10th ends gave Braunstein's rink excellent insurance.

COME FROM BEHIND

B.C., however, had to come from behind in order to knock off Bob Lahale's lightly-regarded Quebec entry.

Gufoski's rink scored on seven of the last 10 ends, including doubles on the eighth, ninth and 12th ends.

SASKATCHEWAN

Saskatchewan wound up their schedule by defeating New Brunswick 11-6 to finish with a 6-4 record. Saskatchewan drew the bye for this afternoon's final round. In the other game this morning, Northern Ontario

edged Newfoundland 9-8.
